

GREEK TROOPS LAUNCH OFFENSIVE

State Brotherhoods Select Directors And Council

CONVENTION WILL CLOSE ON SUNDAY

Orange County Receives 4 Delegates Among Counties of 50 in Entire State

DISCUSS BOYS' WORK

Justice Kenneth Morrison and Ralph Smedley on Program This Morning

Reaching full swing, with three of its sessions behind it and the climax of its business deliberations at hand, the state convention of the Federated Church Brotherhoods today elected new directors and a council of 50 delegates at large, as part of its plan for expansion of representation.

The council, as provided under revision of by-laws, acted upon by the convention today, also will include one delegate from each of the 75 affiliated brotherhoods in the state, such delegates to be named by the individual brotherhoods later.

Orange county received four delegates among the council of 50 at large, J. F. Burke, of Santa Ana, a member of the 17 directors of the state organization, who were included automatically in the council of 50, has been the only representative from this county heretofore. Dr. W. H. Wickett, of Fullerton; S. C. Hartman, of Anaheim; and A. M. Robinson, of Tustin, were added to the council today.

NEW DIRECTORS

Five new members were elected to the board of directors for three-year terms, replacing five whose terms have expired. The new directors are: George Scott, Los Angeles; Ben Brown, Los Angeles; Norman Winslow, Long Beach; C. F. Lamb, Pasadena; and A. C. Hanson, Riverside. They replace M. B. Reavis, of Riverside; James S. Pope, Los Angeles; Ralph Churchill, Santa Ana; Alvaro Baker, Modesto; and Dr. Gilbert N. Brink, Pomona.

OLD-OVER DIRECTORS ARE

R. G. Boyd, Bernard Brennan, J. F. Burke, John F. Cannicott, Hugh C. Gibson, J. S. Human, E. R. Long, John H. Miller, E. Y. Porter, Dr. A. M. Wilkinson, John W. Yates and the Rev. A. L. Webb. Officers of the brotherhood will be elected by the board of directors later in the convention.

RESIDES THE 17 DIRECTORS IN THE COUNCIL OF 50, THE FOLLOWING COUNCIL MEMBERS WERE ELECTED TODAY:

M. P. Flickenger and J. D. Page, of Kern county; W. H. Wickett, S. C. Hartman and A. M. Robinson, Orange county; Glen Wight and E. H. Randolph, Riverside county; Thomas E. Prout, Percy P. Pine, E. E. Payson and Roy Bailey, San Diego county; C. E. Henton and Richard K. Blackburn, of San Bernardino county; James C. Reid, Santa Barbara; Howard A. Cory, Alhambra; O. L. Thompson, Bellflower; L. T. Eaton, Burbank; Stuart Wheeler, Claremont; Dr. G. L. Dummitt, Compton; Roy Johnson, Glendale; Don Condit and Wray Andrews, Long Beach; Ralph Blakeman, Santa Ana; J. Niemeyer, Pasadena; C. E. Lashbrook, South Pasadena; Ralph R. Lloyd, Mark A. Pierce, George Pepperdine, James G. Warren and Carl A. Bundy, of Los Angeles; W. S. Roniek, Pomona; Claude C. Crawford, Santa Monica; and Frank Wright, of Whittier.

Committee Report

The nominations of new directors and the council of 50 were presented to the convention by J. S. Human, of Huntington Park, chairman of the nominating committee.

GARMENT INDUSTRY VICTOR IN DECISION BY FEDERAL JUDGE

REPUBLICANS LAUNCH DRIVE TO BACK LONG

Plan to Take Up Cudgel of Louisiana Senator in Fight on Farley

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(UP)—A Republican drive to take up the cudgels for Sen. Huey P. Long, D. La., and carry on his demands for an investigation of Postmaster General James A. Farley was in the making today.

Long himself promises plenty of action, and the prospect indicates a head-on collision next week when Long's renewed attacks run into the senate's efforts to dispose of the $4,850,000 work-relief bill.

Debate in the senate, which in the past fortnight has distinguished itself for bitter exchanges and fighting moods, may be complicated further by the peppery Sen. Carter Glass, D. Va.

Glass has announced an intention to move for elimination of extraneous subject matter while the senate is considering appropriation bills.

"The idea of the senate taking five days to pass the war department appropriation bill is ridiculous," Glass said.

Glass said he was not referring particularly to Long.

The attitude of Republicans toward the proposed Farley investigation was revealed in the minority reports filed when the senate postoffice committee recommended against proceeding with the inquiry.

The minority held that, in view of charges made against Farley, the subject should be explored thoroughly. They agreed Long had not offered concrete evidence but insisted that Farley be given an opportunity—as Sen. Lynn J. Frazier, R., N. D., put it—"to vindicate himself and to allay the suspicion that has been created in the public mind by the constant repetition of the charges."

Long, cocky and confident, laughed at the committee's report.

"The mistake the senate made," he said, "was in not sending the resolution direct to Farley so that he could reply without going to the trouble of sending it through the committee."

The resulting situation found the senate in far from a peaceful mood. The controversial work-relief bill is due for the beginning of debate Monday.

CATHOLIC PRIMATE IS GIVEN FREEDOM

MEXICO CITY, March 9.—(UP)—After a day's secret imprisonment, Archbishop Pascual Diaz, Roman Catholic primate of Mexico, today thanked Americans for their sympathy.

He said he was ordered to pay fine of 100 pesos ($27.50) for a technical and unintentional violation of the government law regulating church activities. The fine is to be paid at his convenience.

The charge was that he had appeared outside a church in clerical dress. The Archbishop said he dressed in his motor car and walked across the sidewalk into church.

Nevada Would Stamp Out Tipping Evil

CARSON CITY, Nev., March 9.—(UP)—The bell-hop gesture—hand extended with the palm up—would be eliminated in Nevada under terms of a bill introduced by Assemblyman A. L. Hopkins. Tipping, said Hopkins, is an unmitigated evil, and it should be stamped out.

"It's got so a person gets no service unless he tips," Hopkins declared. "My anti-tipping bill if enacted would not only raise wages but would release the public from the obligation to offer gratuities."

Hopkins' bill, modeled after the Georgia measure passed in 1918, would prohibit employers from hiring anyone who accepts tips.

SAMUEL INSULL CASE GOES TO JURY MONDAY

Aged Former Utilities Head Takes Stand Today in His Own Defense

CHICAGO, March 9.—(UP)—Samuel Insull, his figure slightly bent with age but with the light of battle in his eyes, stepped up to the witness stand today to defend himself against charges that he embezzled $66,000 from one of the network of businesses that he developed.

The network collapsed in the depression and Insull fled to Greece. He was returned, however, with promises on his lips that he would vindicate himself in court. He won the first victory by gaining an acquittal in federal court on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Today saw the climax of his trial in criminal court on embezzlement charges.

The courtroom of Judge Cornelius J. Harrington was quiet as Insull began his story—a story that he promised would have as its theme: "Perhaps I made mistakes but I never committed a crime."

As the court session opened men whose names have stood for power and prestige in American politics and finance for years acted as character witnesses for Insull.

"I always have known him as a public-spirited citizen whose truth and veracity is beyond reproach," said Rufus Dawes.

That was the tone of all the testimony as the defense began its case. It was expected the case will go to the jury Monday.

LAMSON TRIAL IN RECESS TO MONDAY

SAN JOSE, March 9.—(UP)—The "voices" Mrs. Sylvia Bailey heard outside the home of David A. Lamson the morning his wife was killed still echoed today through the now empty courtroom where Lamson is being tried on a charge of murder.

More echoes of Mrs. Bailey's sensational testimony will be heard Monday when the trial resumes.

Then Edwin McKenzie, chief of defense counsel, will arise to move that her remarks be expunged from the records of the trial.

Mrs. Bailey, a neighbor of the Lamsons, electrified everybody except the prosecution counsel yesterday when she said she heard the "murmur" of voices which sounded like Lamson's talking "rather hurriedly" to a woman she assumed was his wife.

She set the time as approximately 9:00 a. m. May 20, 1933.

CUBA RESTORES DEATH PENALTY IN NEW REVOLT

All Constitutional Laws Suspended and Army Reserves Called Out

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)

HAVANA, March 9.—(UP)—The government today suspended all constitutional laws and called out organized army reserves for a finish fight with revolutionary strikers.

The death penalty was restored and President Carlos Mendiesta was authorized to inflict it as he saw necessary.

Formal immunity was voted government employees who kill attacking strikers.

The army forbade assembly of more than two persons in the public streets.

Commandants of the country's various military districts were named military governors of the provinces.

An emergency government was effected by merging the council of state, usually an advisory body of eminent men, with the cabinet. Included in the reserves, called out by the army staff, are all policemen, firemen, private watchmen and civilians on the army payroll.

The government's decrees came in answer to a fast spreading strike—which railwaymen and port workers voted to join today—which has the tacit support of political leaders opposing the government.

Terrorists were active. Bombs were exploded at intervals in Havana, three in omnibuses and one in a water main. Fire bombs were exploded in six street cars—which, like the busses, are run by strikebreakers.

Fifty persons were arrested during the night, including Dr. Joaquin Rio Balmaseda, former minister of justice, who was accused of inciting people to strike. Numerous army searches disclosed caches of arms.

FIRST LADY PAYS TRIBUTE TO WOMEN

NEW YORK, March 9.—(UP)—To prove that "the world is becoming as much the woman's home as it is the man's," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in a broadcast speech last night cited 11 women.

Constant inspirations to her, the President's wife said, were: the late Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, suffragist; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffragist and world peace advocate; Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, Chicago; Lillian D. Wald and Mrs. M. M. Simkhovitch, New York settlement workers; Phoebe Omile of the Federal Bureau of Aviation; Amelia Earhart, flier; Mary Dillon, Brooklyn Borough Gas company head; Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor; Josephine Roche, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; and Dorothy Canfield Fisher, novelist.

HOLLYWOOD MODEL GIVEN JUDGMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 9.—(UP)—June Crawford, pretty Hollywood model, had $577 today as proof that rumble seat riders may legally cover their heads when riding in chilly winds.

Miss Crawford was a rumble seat passenger in an automobile involved in a collision last April 3. She sued for $10,000 damages.

Defense contended that the model was negligent in having her coat pulled over her head while riding in a rumble seat. The superior court, judged differently, however, and awarded Miss Crawford the $10,000.

WILEY POST PLANS NEW TEST FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—(UP)—Wiley Post prepared today to take another hide and seek test flight among the clouds before hopping off, perhaps tomorrow morning, on another attempted 7-hour stratosphere flight to New York.

The controllable pitch propeller was installed on the one-eyed flier's ship, the "Winnie Mae," today and Post expected to make his test flight late this afternoon. If the globe-circling plane performs suitably, Post's associates said he may take off for New York "tomorrow morning or anytime in the next two weeks," depending on weather conditions.

Post took the plane aloft yesterday and pronounced it satisfactory. The flight was made with an ordinary propeller, however.

Government Looses Fight In St. Louis

Court Holds Congress Has No Power to Fix Wages or Set Hours

ST. LOUIS, March 9.—(UP)—U. S. Circuit Judge Charles B. Farris, sitting as a district judge, today ruled that congress has no power to fix wages and hours for intra-state businesses.

The ruling denied the federal government's petition for a temporary injunction to prevent the National Garment Co., and the National Underwear Corporation, both of St. Louis, from violating the NRA code for the industry.

The companies, combatting the government, attacked the constitutionality of the NRA on 16 grounds, one of which asserted that it "permits unreasonable and oppressive regulations and rules to be promulgated by self-created groups."

By the ruling, the government lost its fight to compel the two companies to comply with the maximum hour and minimum wage provisions of the code. The two companies were held strictly "intra-state," and the court pointed out it merely followed decisions of the United States supreme court in formulating its ruling.

Judge Farris said in part: "Therefore, since the cases ruled by the supreme court, which I have cited and dozens of others which could be cited are either squarely, or in inescapable principle, against the validity of a federal law which fixes wages and hours of labor in a private and wholly intra-state business, in my opinion, I find myself wholly unable otherwise to construe these cases, as an inferior court, I am bound to follow them. . . ."

"If these cases overruled are not to be followed, this duty or privilege is for the court which announced them. It is beyond my power, as an inferior court, to overrule them, and beyond my ability to distinguish them."

Lacks Power

"I am constrained to conclude that no valid power lies in the congress to fix by law, hours of labor and a minimum wage scale for employers of the defendant. It follows that the temporary relief prayed for by plaintiff should be denied and so it is ordered."

The decision is expected to have far-reaching effect here, as St. Louis is a center for the garment industry.

The government charged that the companies concerned in this suit paid some employees as low as $5.35 a week, against the code provision of $13 a week, minimum, and that some employees had been working more than the 40 hours maximum a week as provided in the code.

MERRIAM NOT TO ACCEPT INVITATION

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 9.—(UP)—Gov. Frank F. Merriam will not be able to accept the assembly's "invitation" to appear before it and answer questions concerning his attitude on the Townsend old age pension plan, he said today when he left for Los Angeles.

The assembly asked him to appear Monday morning, but the governor will not return from the south until Tuesday or Wednesday.

He left a letter with his floor leader, Assemblyman Charles F. Lyon, explaining his stand that congress be permitted to fix the amount of pension to be paid. The letter will be read to the assembly Monday before the lower house again considers a resolution memorializing congress to include in a national pension program the fundamental principles of the Townsend plan.

DARROW INVITED TO MEET

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(UP)—A senate finance sub-committee voted today to invite Clarence Darrow to testify in the Nye-McCarran NRA investigation.

The famous lawyer was chairman of a review board which reported to President Roosevelt last year that NRA's codes were discriminatory and harmful to small business men.

Donald R. Richberg, recovery coordinator, will continue testimony Monday.

The committee decided to summon Lowell Mason, secretary of the Darrow review board, S. Clay Williams, resigned chairman of the National Labor Relations board, Sidney Hillman, of the NRA board, and Leon Henderson, NRA research and planning director,

Half of Half Million Estate of Former Justice Goes to U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(UP)—Former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes left more than half of his $568,000 estate to the United States for use by the government as it sees fit, filing of his will revealed today.

The bequest to the government was in addition to considerable gifts to the library of congress.

Attorneys said the gift was one of the most unusual on record. After making bequests to relatives and servants, Holmes said in his will:

"All of the rest, residue and remainder of my property of whatsoever nature, wherever situated, of which I may die, seized and possessed, or in which I may have an interest at the time of my death, I give, devise and bequeath to the United States of America."

The terms of the will indicated that the government will come into possession of the old fashioned red brick house where Holmes died and where he lived during his residence of more than 30 years in Washington.

To the library of congress he left the bulk of his library, all his engravings, etchings and photographs. Two portraits were bequeathed to the Massachusetts Historical society, one of Wendell Phillips and one of Dorothy "Q."

To his alma mater, Harvard University, he left $25,000, "preferably for use of the law school."

The largest bequest went to Edward J. Holmes, Boston, his nephew. He received $10,000, all the editions of Holmes' father's books and his grandfather's and the right to select 100 additional volumes from Holmes' library.

To the nephew also went the desk and chair from Holmes' study, the red rug which had been on the floor and two portraits by Copley.

A long list of bequests were made to servants and in addition a fund of $5,000 was set aside for the executor for bequests which Holmes might have overlooked.

The executor was also given the right to give them small articles from the Holmes household which they especially cherished.

Bequests totalled about $224,000. The residue going to the government was expected to run something more than $360,000.

Holmes did not elucidate the one paragraph of his will leaving the residue to the Government. As he specified no particular use of the money, it was expected it simply would be placed in the Treasury's miscellaneous receipts.

HOLLYWOOD MODEL GIVEN JUDGMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 9.—(UP)—June Crawford, pretty Hollywood model, had $577 today as proof that rumble seat riders may legally cover their heads when riding in chilly winds.

Miss Crawford was a rumble seat passenger in an automobile involved in a collision last April 3. She sued for $10,000 damages.

Defense contended that the model was negligent in having her coat pulled over her head while riding in a rumble seat. The superior court, judged differently, however, and awarded Miss Crawford the $10,000.

ROOSEVELT PLANS TRIP

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—The Yacht Nourmahal is expected to arrive here tomorrow to await the coming of President Roosevelt for a fishing cruise in Bahaman waters.

Aboard the yacht, arriving from the British West Indies, are Vincent Astor, owner, Mrs. Astor, and Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, with a party of friends. Mr. Roosevelt is expected to arrive late this month or early in April.

HEADS FIGHT

Heading the campaign for repeal of the pink slip provision making federal income tax returns public is Raymond Pitts (below) of Philadelphia, head of an organization called the Sentinels of the Republic.

MAD SLAYER OF BOY IS SOUGHT BY OFFICIALS

Son of Wealthy Michigan Family Found Stabbed Eight Times

YPSILANTI, Mich., March 9.—(UP)—The mad slayer of 7-year-old Richard Streicher Jr., son of wealthy and prominent parents, was sought by police forces of southern Michigan today.

While authorities had no clues to his identity, they believed the brutal crime resembling in some of its details the murder of Bobby Franks by Nathan F. Leopold and Richard Loeb, was near solution.

The boy's body was found last night beneath a footbridge leading to a secluded island in the Huron river. Richard had been stabbed eight times in the chest. Three stab wounds to the heart were the center of a figure resembling either a cross or a "Y" made by lacerations. His head also had been slashed. Either a knife or an ice-pick was the weapon used.

The cross-like figure cut on the child's chest caused police to suspect that religious mania might have dominated the killer.

The child's parents are well known in this section. The father is part owner of the Streicher Tool and Die works. His grandfather is a prominent automobile designer.

Post-mortem examination indicated the child had been mercilessly tortured before death. Only three of the eight chest wounds reached the heart.

Richard disappeared Thursday afternoon after leaving his home to play.

Police were convinced Richard was slain elsewhere and carried to the spot where his body was found, a block from his home.

Leopold and Loeb tortured and killed 14-year-old Bobby Franks for a "thrill" May 21, 1924. The combined wealth of the Leopold, Loeb, and Franks family then represented $40,000,000. After a sensational trial in which the killers were defended by Clarence Darrow, they were sentenced to life imprisonment and still are serving their sentences.

TWO STATES TODAY MENACED BY FLOODS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 9.—(UP)—Floods menaced sections of Alabama and Mississippi today as continued rains poured into already overflowing rivers.

Rising waters blocked highways and railroads and drove residents and livestock from low areas as more rain was predicted.

At Demopolis, Ala., the Black Warrior and the Tombigbee rivers were still rising, with a crest of 59 feet expected by Tuesday, which would inundate the rich farming section surrounding the junction. The river reached a level of 51.1 feet yesterday, 12.1 feet above the flood stage.

In Mississippi, the Coldwater, Tallahatchie, Yazoo, Leaf and Tombigbee rivers all were rising steadily.

GOVERNMENT OPENS DRIVE WITH PLANES

Full Smash to Be Underway by Sunday; Little Resistance Looked for

BOMBARD BARRACKS

All Private Radio Stations Taken Over by Government to Halt Messages

ATHENS, March 9.—(UP)—Government airplanes bombed rebel forces in Macedonia today in the opening of a "decisive" offensive designed to wipe out the revolutionary movement led by former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos. Other bombing planes flew to Crete to bomb Venizelos' home and rebel headquarters.

The big aerial bombardment—most potent weapon of Premier Panagiotis Tsaldaris' government—was the forerunner of a three-headed offensive in Macedonia, where General George Condylis, government commander-in-chief, established headquarters at Demirhisar and personally directed the fighting.

The bombardment apparently covered a wide range, extending toward the Bulgarian frontier, where fear of a Balkan outbreak has been created by charges Turk troops were massing on the Thrace frontier. This dispute was liquidated at Geneva today, however, when the Bulgarian delegate to the League of Nations withdrew his protest.

General Condylis said the offensive in Macedonia, where the government has massed troops, was starting today and, in Athens, the premier announced that the offensive would be under way by tomorrow in all events, with the resistance expected because of today's heavy aerial bombardments.

The planes dispatched across the Mediterranean sea to rebel headquarters in Crete were ordered to bomb the Venizelos residence at Canea, the barracks of troops and other towns and strategic points.

Officials denied that the rebels had bombarded the Athens-Salonica railroad and said that reports, via Alexandria, that Athens had been bombarded were erroneous.

There was some apprehension in Salonica due to reports, most of which were officially denied, that rebels were bombarding loyalist points from the air and were landing crack troops from Crete near Salonica.

The government took over all private radio stations in an effort to prevent rebel radio communication.

FRANCE WILL BUY AMERICAN APPLES

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(UP)—France promises to be a good customer for American apples and pears this year, the bureau of agricultural economics said today.

"It seems probable in view of the short supplies of dessert apples and pears in Europe, that the United States will again find a good outlet for this fruit in France in the last quarter of the 1934-35 season," the bureau said.

French imports of American apples and pears have exceeded quota allotments during the past two seasons and the tendency still prevails, the bureau said. During the first quarter of the current season imports were more than three times the allotment.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(UP)—Approximately $555,000,000 of the $1,850,000,000 (B) of maturing 4th Liberty loan four and one-quarter per cent bonds have been refunded into new 20 to 25-year two and seven eighths per cent bonds, the treasury announced today.

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—(UP)—Wages of Pacific Electric Railway car operators were increased approximately $500,000 a year under new contracts signed today by the International Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and railroad officials.

BROTHERHOODS OF STATE NAME NEW DIRECTRS

Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, of Santa Ana, occupied the morning session, with Harrison White, Orange county Boy Scout executive; Ralph Smedley, Santa Ana; Y. M. C. A. secretary, and Frank S. Pierce, leader of boys' work at the First Christian church, participating.

Justice Morrison said the problem is how to get more boys a Christian education, to spread it over boyhood as a whole. He called attention to the fact that boys are getting less Christian education than ever, it being limited to 20 minutes per week.

The programs of the Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. were held up as examples of channels for bringing boys and girls to the church. Big business men, he said, are crying that we need more religious training.

Smedley pointed out that the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are the only organizations in this city supplying a clean and free entertainment for boys and girls.

"As far as the young people are concerned," concluded Justice Morrison, "We have a lot of faith in them. The majority are good. It is the small minority which make the trouble, and it is these the Brotherhood must reach and correct, or the federal government will step in and undertake the work itself."

Luncheon Today
A service luncheon at noon today in the M. E. church banquet hall was addressed by Dr. Cleveland Kleihauer, of Hollywood, speaking on the subject, "Pushing Back the Deadline."

Resolutions were expected to be brought before the convention this afternoon, with J. F. Burke, of Santa Ana, presiding. This evening, a Good Sportsmanship dinner is scheduled, with addresses by William "Bill" Henry, Los Angeles sports editor, and Clyde Doyle, of Long Beach.

Captain W. E. Robb, Riverside war chaplain, was scheduled to speak this afternoon on "War and Peace."

The convention will close tomorrow with a morning conference, plans for a breakfast conference having been cancelled, and an afternoon session.

Addresses this afternoon by Dr. Raymond Brooks, of Pomona college; tonight, by Dr. Henry Kendall Both, of Long Beach, and the Rev. A. L. Webb, of East Long Beach; and tomorrow by Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan, of Hollywood, and Dr. James Crain, of Indianapolis, are coming convention highlights.

WARNER SUGGESTS TURNING TO CHRIST
This country has tried everything else; it now had better try Jesus Christ.

That advice for the solution of our national problems, coupled with a demand for international understanding and friendship, was solemnly delivered by Dr. George A. Warner, pastor of the convention church, in sounding the keynote address of the state Brotherhood convention as it opened here late yesterday.

Dr. Warner issued a call to the church men to get into "the mussy end of organizing" ideals and ideas of Jesus into actual life and conduct. The church and church men, he accused, are too prone to content themselves with

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, March 9. (To the Editor of The Register): That Englishman Malcolm Campbell sure deserves a lot of credit; 276 miles an hour in an automobile, very few aeroplanes have beat that. About all the credit we get out of it is, we furnished the beach. It seems strange that we don't hold the automobile speed record, for we have millions trying to break it every day.

Huey is setting fine now. The Republican papers have all adopted him, they took him in as their white hope. Whatever become of the four billion relief bill?

Yours,
WILL ROGERS

the sentimentality of religion, and refrain from doing anything about them.

Speaking on the subject "Where Do We Go From Here," he warned that "we will keep on going just where we are going, unless we get direction" such as supplied by the ten commandments. The commandments, he said, are "the barometer that will guide us safely over the swinding bridges of life." He had used, as an illustration, the two employees of a power company who fell from a swinging bridge across a canyon, because there were no barometers.

The speaker bitterly denounced the country's preparations for war, and "the propaganda for war," particularly with Japan.

"There are the grounds for expecting a war with Japan," he demanded. "We might look for war with Mexico or with Canada, but why with Japan?"

Always a Scare
"Yet, as Bill Hart, the Orange editor, said to me the other day: Did you notice, Dr. Warner, that whenever we have a move in congress for an army or navy appropriation, we always have a Japanese war scare? I hadn't noticed, but that is a fact."

"Why do we propagandize war in a peaceful hour? What do we need of an army? What we need is a sympathy and understanding between men."

Christ, said Dr. Warner, is "out of our civilization, because we have lost his ideas out of our religion." We have, he said, so much sentiment about Christianity that we lose its dynamics. "We are so conscious of our immediate surroundings that we neglect to lift our eyes to the hills."

"It is easy," he said, "to be an idealist, if you don't have to take the mussy end and organize those ideas. We sing and pray about justice, but when it is suggested that we go out and change our court procedure to get better justice, we back up."

"The senate has voted down the world court, while we talk of brotherhood, when someone asks us if we believe in the world court, we say 'No, we believe in internationalism.'"

"Brotherhood can only be ultimately realized and added to the totality of civilization by taking hold of that mussy end and organizing our ideals."

"The church of Christ in this hour needs to be a voice; needs to stand up and be counted, and not be a zero any more; it must meet the issues. The church passes its resolutions and goes on its sentimental way, and does nothing about it afterwards. Others say: 'Let them pass their resolutions; we don't care. Not until the church catches hold of the ideas of Jesus and pulls them down into the mussy end of organizing; only then can the church stand up again in holy grandeur.'"

Convention Opened
Dr. A. M. Wilkinson of Hollywood called the convention to order after the prelude by the Santa Ana High School symphony orchestra, directed by Leland Auer. Community singing was led by Frank Pierce, convention music director, with Miss Ruth Armstrong, convention organist, at the piano. Pierce called attention to the "unusually splendid program of convocation music" prepared for all sessions.

Dr. Wilkinson presented High Gilman of Los Angeles, state Brotherhood president, who formerly opened the convention, after reading passages of scripture. Just before the opening, City School Superintendent Frank A. Henderson offered prayer.

The Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, and president of the Santa Ana Ministerial Union, delivered remarks of welcome on behalf of the ministry of Santa Ana, and W. A. Taylor, chairman of the convention committee, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the committee.

The Rev. Mr. Buchanan told the delegates they were welcome to our business houses as Christian men who will progress; and to our homes, which will be better by your presence."

Taylor welcomed them to "the western city in Southern California," explaining that he meant rain. "This city," he said, "is rich in the resources of its soil, but infinitely richer in the type of its citizenship."

Banquet Held
The church auditorium was rapidly filling before the session concluded, and at the convention banquet, which followed, more than 400 were seated.

Dr. Roy Smith, pastor of the First M. E. Church at Hollywood, reporting for the committee on unification of temperance forces, declared, in reference to increased traffic fatalities resulting from drunk driving, that "we either must give up the automobile industry or the booze industry."

The committee, he said, had decided on changing the name of the Anti-Saloon League to the "American League Against Alcohol," believing that the old name was outmoded. Changes in organization methods also were reported, as to the selection of the national superintendent and the various state superintendents. A united attack "on the whole program" is necessary, he urged.

A men's chorus, from Long Beach, led by Dr. Brown, of the Long Beach United Brotherhood, featured a musical program, which also included instrumental numbers, a cornet solo by Leland Auer winning special applause.

Evening Session
Four speakers divided the time at the evening session, which also was marked by a series of three numbers by the Senior Ensemble, directed by Elwood Bear, well known local artist. This group of young violinists, all pupils of Bear, received an ovation from the crowded auditorium.

At the conclusion of their program, Frank Pierce paid them a strong tribute, and praised Bear for his own "contribution to the community."

The Cardinal quartet of young men from Chapman College also received resounding applause for their three selections.

John W. Yates, Los Angeles insurance executive and a director of the state Brotherhood, was the first speaker, his subject being, "Business is a Challenge." The challenge today, he said, is for business men to realize the type of service needed, to "go giving instead of go-getting."

The type of "do others before they do you" policy following the World War brought the middle of 1929, he said. "The country needs a turning-back to the days of our founders—to keep God in our American history." He quoted a South American ruler as saying that the reason North America progressed and prospered more than South America was because people came to South America looking for a pot of gold, while the founders of North America came there looking for God.

"Business will come back when business men start forward on their knees," he concluded.

The Rev. A. L. Webb, pastor of the East Long Beach Christian church, also a state director, speaking on "The Brotherhood, Its Program," said that, first, there must be a brotherhood, and urged the pooling of experience and intellect into a community-wide brotherhood, as more effective than individual church effort.

"The Brotherhood," he said, "is where we can come to grips with problems that are staggering humanity. It is a responsibility upon the Brotherhood, he said, to provide the right kind of leadership for other fields."

The Rev. Kelly O'Neill, pastor of the First Christian Church of Huntington Park, made an appeal for financial support of the Brotherhood work, while pledge envelopes were distributed among the audience, and a collection taken.

Dr. Phillips Speaks
Dr. Glenn R. Phillips, pastor of the Hollywood M. E. church, spoke on "The Gods of Men." Referring to the olden people who worshipped smooth, small stones, he said these were chosen probably because they were easily handled and could be carried about.

Many people today, he said, are like that. They want a God that is convenient and will not interfere when they don't want Him to interfere. "Many of us want a God, like a hot water bottle, to make us comfortable at times," he said.

But we need a religion that will carry us, not one that we must carry, he declared. The gods that have to be carried, he said, are created out of our superstitions, fears, and greed, such as nationalism and sectionalism.

"Some of the sermons our ministers preached during 1917 and 1918 would make embarrassing reading now," he said, reading a few excerpts of such sermons, showing a blood-thirsty attitude toward Germany. It was the same in 1861, he declared. These statements, he pointed out, have no relation to present-day teachings.

During the last 15 years the United States has spent ten billions on its army and navy, more than any other nation spent, yet our naval and military chiefs now tell us that our defense is inadequate, its equipment obsolete, said Dr. Phillips. "Where did all that money go?" He answered, saying it poured into the pockets of the Duponts, the steel magnates and the dry-dock owners.

"We need a religion," he concluded, "that makes for a creative God, not an employer but a partner. The cross stands for creative endeavor."

HITLER SUFFERING FROM SEVERE COLD
BERLIN, March 9.—(UP)—Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, was reported to have told Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador, today that it would take Adolf Hitler two weeks to recover from his cold and that he hoped after that Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, would visit him.

Hitler's cold developed just after issue of a British white paper criticizing German military spirit. Hitler asked Simon to postpone indefinitely a visit he was to have made Thursday.

PROPERTY EXCHANGED
MIDWAY CITY, March 9.—The half acre of land with stucco residence on South Jackson street, Midway City, the home of Mrs. J. Gessner, has been traded by Mrs. Gessner through the Maude Clark Realty office for two houses and lot at Compton. The deal was made with A. J. Woodworth, Long Beach man. Mrs. Gessner leaves Midway City at once and will be with friends for a time.

Politically Speaking

BY GEORGE E. HELMER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 9.—

(UP)—EPIC demands of the 1934 gubernatorial campaign have been reiterated in the 1935 legislature, but the question of EPIC, or Democratic, or anti-administration strength has yet to be determined by a vote on some controversial measure.

First formal cry for support of one of the old EPIC teachings was made in the assembly by William Moseley Jones, Democratic leader, who sought to have $5,000,000 in relief funds set aside for self-help cooperatives.

Discussion indicated he had considerable backing in his plea for state aid to the cooperative unemployed groups, but the majority agreed with Controller Ray L. Riley, that that was no time to push the issue.

An argument which lasted an hour and a half was based on the proposal that $10,000,000 be borrowed for special funds to meet relief demands until the state's $24,000,000 bond issue is sold next month. The "loan" then will be repaid.

Jones wanted half the money earmarked for self-help groups. Riley, speaking before the assembly meeting as a committee of the whole, said that would not be possible because the funds must be disbursed as though they were part of the bond issue, the spending of which was directed in the amendment approved by the electorate last November.

Riley and Jones had some merry exchanges, with Riley holding the upper hand. Jones finally became vexed and said to the assembly: "We were elected by the people to draw up legislation; not to come here and merely vote on measures recommended by some state officials."

Riley countered with remarks to the effect that "it makes no difference to me what you do; I was asked to cooperate in drawing up an emergency measure. I am telling you what the state can and cannot do. If you don't want to accept this measure, you don't have to. I think it was very unfair of you, Mr. Jones, to intimate that I am personally interested in the matter."

Jones hastened to assure the controller he had not meant to challenge Riley's integrity, whereupon the veteran official laughingly concluded the argument with: "All right; I accept your apology."

The measure went to roll call when Jones withdrew his proposed amendment and said he would seek to attain his aims through another bill. The assembly passed the emergency legislation unanimously.

Early developments made it obvious that the lower house will be the scene of endless battles during this session which will extend well toward June.

Administration pleas for "intelligent cooperation" in solving the state's problems seemed to have made little impression on Democrats and anti-Merriam forces who were preparing to shoot roles in the administration tax program.

Charles W. Lyon, the governor's floor leader in the assembly, told his colleagues that Frank F. Merriam would consider any substitute plans that had merit. But he urged the members to refrain from "fault finding just to be criticizing."

A bloc of Democrats remained determined to fight for a Bourbon program differing widely from the governor's 14-point tax plan. They opposed so-called nuisance taxes on admissions and tobacco; increased sales and gasoline taxes; consumers' levies on utility services.

They had no assurance that the governor would consider their plans sensible. They were determined not to let the administration program ride through without a battle.

Even some of the ordinarily mild-mannered Republicans greeted reporters with the observation: "You'll have plenty to write about when we get underway." And administration leaders secretly admitted they expected a wide variety of sharpshootings.

Jones and his Democratic followers, incidentally, insist they are no longer EPICs, but are Democrats fighting for the Bourbon platform on which the party stood during the fall campaign. They have gained some support among anti-Merriam Republicans, but the actual outcome of important issues cannot be determined until the measures themselves are brought to a vote.

Sunday Concerts To Be Given By Band At Beach
Sunday afternoon band concerts in Birch Park will be discontinued by the SERRA band and programs will be alternated between Newport Beach and Balboa, it was learned today from Director Ted Collins.

The first beach program will be given in front of the pier at Newport tomorrow, at 2 p. m., and the musical organization will be at Balboa the following Sunday.

The weekly Saturday night program in the Santa Ana business district will be given as usual to-night, starting at 7 o'clock, Collins said.

PERFORMANCE BY ENGINEERS DRAWS CROWD

With the Willard auditorium filled to capacity, the fourth annual engineering show presented by the Santa Ana Junior College chapter of the American Association of Engineers was held last night, displaying experiments and demonstrations of chemical and electrical phenomena with engineering students conducting the performance.

Besides the 15 students who conducted the show, comments were made by H. O. Russell, Jaycee engineering advisor; McKee Fisk, college dean; D. K. Hammond, president of the college; and William C. Hogaboom, Pacific coast advisor of the American Association of Engineers.

One of the objects of the annual affair, according to George Robertson, chairman of the program, is to interest high school students in the engineering departments of the institution.

Many of those in attendance expressed their opinion that this show was an improvement over those of previous years.

NAME DOCTORS ON HOSPITAL BOARD
Appointment of Dr. Horace Leeding of Santa Ana and Dr. Paul Esslinger of San Juan Capistrano as directors of the Santa Ana Valley hospital was the one of the highlights of a directors meeting held last night at the hospital.

With his appointment, Dr. Leeding assumed the secretaryship of the board. Dr. Emmett Raitt, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Manager Martin Noren reported that the demolition program for the old building has progressed sufficiently to install the kitchen in the new part of the hospital, place a new large electric refrigerator in service, and install a ventilating system for the kitchen. Noren also declared that the patient average of the hospital has doubled in the past 30 days.

Decision was made to install highway signs at First and Garfield and Tenth and Main, directing the route to the hospital from the main highways.

ISSUE WARNING ON SELLING SCHEME
Housewives and home owners were warned today by Phil M. Brown, secretary-manager of the Business Men's association, of the possible appearance of a door-to-door salesman in Santa Ana, selling siphon hoses for wash tubs.

Brown said the salesman shows a photograph and tells a fictitious story of having a wife and three children in Chicago and says he is trying to earn $15 to pay his expenses to the eastern city. The hoses he sells are not worthless, but are not genuine for the purpose for which they are sold, it was reported.

The man is about 45 years of age, is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has hair turning grey and is well dressed in a grey suit.

ESTELLA M. JORDAN CALLED BY DEATH
Estella M. Jordan, 65, resident of this city for the past 14 years, died at her home, 610 1/2 East Second street, today following an extended illness. She was born in Illinois. She is survived by one son, James Ileslandm, of Joliet, Ill., and two sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Pickles, of Mattoon, Ill., and Miss Regina Tweedy, of Norwalk. Funeral services will be announced later, by the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

Freddie Carson On Streets In New Gas Power Chair
Smiling and happy, Freddie Carson, Santa Ana's crippled newsboy, made a visit to The Register office today in his new gasoline motor wheel chair, purchased for him through a fund sponsored by The Register.

Carson voluntarily had his paralyzed legs amputated early this year so he could better make his way around. Loss of blood nearly cost him his life after the separate operations but he rallied and is now nearly recovered. He was crippled 10 years ago when he fell from a tree.

Out of doors in his car for the first time Wednesday, Carson is thoroughly enjoying the new experience of being able to go anywhere he wishes at a rapid speed. He expects to go back to his familiar stand at Fourth and Main streets selling papers in the near future, he told friends.

AVOCADO MEN GIVEN ADVICE BY EXPERTS

More than 400 avocado growers of Southern California, embracing territory from San Diego to Santa Barbara gathered for an all day session in La Habra yesterday for the sixth annual Avocado Growers Institute, under the auspices of the Agricultural Extension Service and the Farm Bureau avocado departments of Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Ray Frantz, of La Habra, chairman of the Orange County Avocado Growers department, presided at the morning session. Harold E. Wahlberg, Orange County farm advisor, spoke on "What It Costs to Produce Avocados." His remarks were based on the fifth year's analysis of the cost of producing avocados in representative orchards located mainly in Yorba Linda, Tustin and La Habra districts.

Bearing groves were classified by the speaker into two groups, the high group and the low group, based in the average income earned above cash costs. Wahlberg showed that the groves which had received a sufficient amount of fertilizer, water, pest control treatment, etc., returned the highest income to their owners.

Figures he presented showed that the total cash cost per acre in the high group for 1934 was $139, while for the low group it was $103; total income per acre in the high group however, was $369, and for the low group it was only $81, making the total income per acre above cash costs in the high group $229 as compared with a deficit of $72 for the low group. While only about $20 per acre more was spent in caring for the high group groves, than those of the low group, the returns to the high group grower were many times that of the low group.

Carter Barret, of Pasadena, expert pruner and budder of avocados, gave an illustrated lecture on the subject of "Training and Pruning Avocado Trees." He also answered questions asked by the audience.

"The Avocado in the Diet" was discussed during the morning session by Miss Belle Alger, home demonstration agent of San Diego county. She called attention to the fact that the avocado contained vitamins A, B, D and E and that it lacked only vitamin C which is found abundantly in citrus fruits. While the avocado is high in oil content, it is of the vegetable oil family and not of the animal fat group, thus is not fattening to the consumer, as it is high in vitamins and minerals and low in calories, she said. The avocado lends itself best to salads and many convenient recipes were presented by Miss Alger.

Dr. J. E. Coit spoke on "Recent Observations in Florida Avocado Orchards." The avocado industry in Florida centers around Miami, and nearly equals that of California, however, he said, because of the Cuban competition, Florida is attempting to change over to the California varieties of avocado. This fact makes the tariff on Cuban fruit more imperative to the Californian than ever. Florida growers are very envious of the California Fuerte variety of fruit produced here, and also of the system of cooperative marketing of the product, he said.

H. L. McKenzie, of Riverside, entomologist from the Citrus Experiment station, spoke on "New Developments in Avocado Pest Control." He said that from July to October was the best time to fumigate the trees for Latania scale. Long poles and light tents have been devised for this purpose and calcium cyanide in powdered form is used. However, he said that where there was a great number of tents needed on the largest acreage, the liquid gas was preferred over the powder.

"Practical Methods of Disease Control in Avocados" was the subject of Dean F. Palmer, horticultural inspector of Carlsbad. Palmer told of the new state bulletin now available, written by

FOUR GIVEN LASHES FOR PETTY THEFTS

WILMINGTON, Del., March 9.—(UP)—While spectators looked on, four men were given lashes at the Newcastle county work house today.

The four were James Welsh, 23, of Lynn, Mass., and three negroes. Welsh, who received 10 lashes administered by Warden J. Leach, had pleaded guilty to stealing an overcoat.

Indian and Horse Reported Missing
An Indian and a horse were listed among the missing in Santa Ana today.

Least timid citizens might become alarmed, police files indicate that the redskin and the steed were made of metal and were stolen from the radiators of two automobiles in the city.

James Hughes, 818 Garfield street, had a horse-shaped radiator ornament stolen last night from sixth and Sycamore streets, and George H. Boardman, 1421 North Flower street, had a lance-armed Indian cap stolen Thursday night.

Students Advised Of Father's Death
Rev. Fred W. Christ, minister of the First Presbyterian church in Wilton, N. D., and father of Miss Ruth Christ and Paul Christ, who are attending Santa Ana Junior college at the present time, died suddenly early yesterday morning. It was learned here today.

Christ and his sister left Anaheim last night by train to attend funeral services. It is thought that they will return to finish their college work. Miss Christ was to graduate in June, while Christ was in his freshman year. They lived with an aunt, Mrs. M. A. Boose, in Santa Ana.

Price Conscious?
Of course you are. And so are we. When most buyers were chiefly interested in quality we took pride in selling only the best materials. Now, along with our old lines of highest quality, we stock the lower priced materials, competitive lines they are called, of lumber, roofing, hardware, paints — anything and everything used in construction. And we still take pride in what we sell—because whether it be high grade or low grade, we know and our customers know that it is exactly as represented and that the price is as low, grade for grade, as you can find anywhere.

Price conscious? Yes we are, but more especially VALUE conscious and proud of it.

PLYMOUTH Again Outsell
ALL OTHER CARS IN SANTA ANA As Well as in Orange County in January

Santa Ana Deliveries:
• PLYMOUTH 23 Cars
• Second Car 14 Cars
• Third Car 3 Cars

PLYMOUTH delivered a total of 23 cars All other cars combined delivered 46 cars

There must be a reason for this decided swing to Plymouth cars—Perhaps it is hydraulic brakes, floating power, directional cooling and numerous other mechanical features which you can find only in Plymouth cars, or perhaps it is because buyers have proved to themselves that they can operate the Plymouth car so much more economically on a cost per mile basis than any other car.

MAY WE SUGGEST that you see this new 1935 Plymouth car, drive it and let us explain why it costs less per mile or less per year to drive a PLYMOUTH.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
It is amazing how ignorant you are regarding your own needs. So long as you trust solely in your own strength, your sense of capacity is an incredible delusion; in some hour of weakness you will be completely overwhelmed.
The eager desire to become more worthy of the Father's approval, the determination to do small things well, leaving all to God, and a healthy, wholesome outlook will serve to insulate you against devastating influences and to foster those qualities which insure your triumph over weakness, doubt, and wrong-doing.

A warm sun shone down from a blue sky on rain-soaked farm lands in Orange county today after light showers yesterday afternoon and last night boosted seasonal rainfall totals even farther ahead of last year.

The end of the storm which brought an unprecedented amount of rainfall to Santa Ana in a short space of time apparently was at an end today, with the Weather Bureau predicting fair weather for tonight and tomorrow, with unseasonable cold in the early morning hours tomorrow.

Santa Ana received .07 inches of rain in the showers yesterday afternoon and last night, bringing the storm total up to 2.16 inches and the seasonal total up to 16.38 inches as compared with 8.83 inches at this time last year and a total of 9.32 inches for all of last year.

GUILTY PLEAS ENTERED BY 3 DEFENDANTS

Four criminal cases came before Superior Judge James Allen yesterday afternoon in criminal court session, one of the defendants being charged with grand theft, another with drunk driving and two with non-support of a minor child.

Myrtle Biblehouse, who is charged with stealing an automobile belonging to G. E. Weeks on February 17 from in front of a Buena Park church, changed her previous plea of not guilty to guilty and made application for probation. The hearing on the application for probation will be on March 22.

Earl Brewer pleaded guilty to non-support of a minor child and applied for probation. The probation hearing was set for March 15.

Doris Arey, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor on February 27 on the 101 highway at West Chapman avenue, pleaded guilty to the charge and asked the court for probation. The date for the hearing on the application for probation was set for March 15.

Maynard C. Thayer, Newport Beach, charged with non-support of a minor child, pleaded not guilty to the charge and demanded a trial by jury, the date of which was set for September 16.

COUNTY MUSICIANS TO GIVE PROGRAM

The Musical Memory Hour arranged for the Sunday afternoon program at Melrose Abbey, on Highway 101, at 3:15 p. m. tomorrow, will feature artists from Fullerton, Santa Ana and Laguna Beach.

Stanley Berkeley, baritone, and Ruth Moll who are presented by Moll-Mills Studio of Music, are both talented young musicians of Fullerton and are well known in their respective musical circles, the announcement said.

Edith McDonald, Laguna Beach contralto, a graduate of the Whittier College music department and now music supervisor of the Arcadia city schools, will sing several numbers.

T. Harry Wane, organist at the United Presbyterian church in Santa Ana, also well known throughout the musical circles of Orange county, will play several selections on the cathedral organ. The public is invited to all Memory Hour Programs.

CANDIDATE FILES FOR SCHOOL OFFICE

WESTMINSTER, March 2.—With the school election scheduled for March 29, one candidate has filed for the vacancy, Percy Lawrence, incumbent trustee. Lawrence is a representative of the west, or Barber City section of the school district.

The school election will be held in the Presbyterian church manse, the present kindergarten quarters of the school. The hours of the election will be from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and those to serve on the election board are Mrs. Florence McLaughlin, Mrs. May Finley and Mrs. Neise Nelson.

Bourbon Chairman Labels Report On P.O. Exam Rumor

Judge J. G. Mitchell, Santa Ana, chairman of the Orange County Democratic Central committee, who was quoted yesterday in a Los Angeles newspaper as reporting that another civil service examination to select a permanent postmaster for Orange will be called soon, said today that the report is based only on rumors.

It was reported that Mrs. Vera Wettlin, acting postmistress, probably will qualify if an examination is held, and would therefore be appointed on a permanent basis.

JUDGES GRANT DIVORCES TO SEVEN COUPLES

Seven couples were legally separated yesterday afternoon when superior court judges granted divorces in each case.

Judge G. K. Seovel granted a divorce to Lavena Watson from Harlie H. Brown. Married in Pasadena on October 15, 1911, the couple separated April 21, 1934. The plaintiff accused the defendant of associating with other women.

Mildred Y. Rogers was granted a divorce by Judge Seovel from Reginald W. Rogers. The complaint charged that the husband was cruel and stayed away from home one week-ends. The couple married in Santa Ana on November 9, 1926, and separated November 1, 1934.

Another divorce granted by Judge Seovel was to Mary Stahly from Joseph Stahly. The couple were married in San Bernardino on April 26, 1930, and separated the next month on May 27, 1934. The plaintiff charged desertion.

Judge James L. Allen granted a divorce to Hazel A. Hill from Jack Hill. The couple was married in Santa Ana on February 14, 1932, and separated August 28, 1934. The wife charged the husband with being cold and intolerant.

Alice A. Jones was granted a divorce from John H. Jones by Judge Allen. The complaint charged the defendant with habitual intemperance and that he cursed his wife. Married in Santa Ana on December 20, 1917 and separated February 16, 1935.

Judge Allen granted another divorce to Raymond C. Uecker from Jean Rice Uecker. The couple was married in Reno on September 14, 1934, and separated October 16, 1934. The husband charged that upon the return to their home in Santa Ana, the wife expressed a desire to return to her former husband, saying she didn't know why she married the plaintiff.

Judge H. G. Ames granted a divorce to Mae Worthy Gold, who had accused her husband, Robert C. Gold, of cruelty and of accusing her of associating with other men. Married in Santa Ana on October 11, 1926, the couple separated February 10, 1935.

SONG WRITER TO BE HERE SUNDAY

The Rev. Hadlor Lillenas, of Kansas City, Missouri, well known gospel song writer, will appear at the First Church of the Nazarene, Fifth and Barton streets, tomorrow evening, according to announcement by the pastor, the Rev. G. E. Waddie.

The Rev. Mr. Lillenas, who has written more than 2500 gospel songs and hymns, will relate numerous stories connected with his most popular song numbers, and also will read a group of his best-loved poems, said the Rev. Mr. Waddie.

"Of absorbing interest to all music lovers will be his lecture, 'Gospel Song Writers and Their Songs.' A stereopticon lantern will be used in connection with the lecture," the Rev. Mr. Waddie stated. The service will begin at 7:30 and admission is free.

The Rev. Mr. Lillenas will be accompanied here by Mrs. Lillenas and their daughter, Mrs. Reginald Williams, of Oklahoma City, both of whom will take part in the program.

FARM BUREAU MOTION FILED OPPOSES STATE FOR NEW TRIAL ROAD PROGRAM IN WATER SUIT

Resolutions adopted by the Orange County Farm Bureau board of directors opposing the taking over of roads now in county road systems and favoring an equitable increase in the allotment of gasoline tax funds to cities were on the way to state legislators representing Orange county today.

Recommendation that the resolutions be adopted by the Farm Bureau board of directors and forwarded to legislators was made by the Farm Bureau taxation committee.

The resolution said: "We concur with the statement by Governor Frank F. Merriam that the present gasoline taxes are sufficient to maintain all state and county roads and that we so advise our legislative representatives and request that they oppose the enactment of either of these laws so far as the transfer of county roads to the state highway department is concerned, and be it further resolved that we favor an equitable increase in the allotment of gasoline tax funds to the cities to be paid from the state's portion of present legal allotments, and believe it is essential that no reduction be made in the present county legal allotments."

"And, whereas, in our opinion the county boards of supervisors are the best qualified to administer the present county road systems,

"Therefore, be it resolved that neither the highway law sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California nor that referred to as the Merriam Law be desirable and that we so advise our legislative representatives and request that they oppose the enactment of either of these laws so far as the transfer of county roads to the state highway department is concerned, and be it further resolved that we favor an equitable increase in the allotment of gasoline tax funds to the cities to be paid from the state's portion of present legal allotments, and believe it is essential that no reduction be made in the present county legal allotments."

ARREST PASSENGER AFTER ACCIDENT

Travelling at high speed, an automobile overturned at 9 a. m. today at Ball road and Euclid avenue, west of Anaheim. The two occupants escaped injury, but one was later jailed for drunkenness.

The machine was driven by D. B. Bartlett, 20, of Long Beach. His companion, Charles Mahan Jr., 21, Long Beach, was jailed for drunkenness on the highway by California Highway Patrolman Oscar Kelly. According to traffic reports, the car was travelling north on Euclid avenue when Bartlett attempted to make a U turn. The machine overturned and stopped in an orange grove.

In a wreck reported yesterday to police which happened Thursday evening at Sixth and Broadway, R. O. Sullivan, 30, 809 West Third street, and Connie Murane, 8, 2418 Riverside drive, received head injuries. The wreck was caused when cars driven by Ralph Murane, 2418 Riverside drive, and C. F. Bobzin, 936 Grand avenue, collided.

Court Notes

Paul Canasay, charged with drunken driving, paid $50 of a $150 fine in police court yesterday.

L. Madrid, charged with drunkenness, paid a $15 fine after pleading guilty in police court yesterday.

R. H. Baker paid $5 of a $25 fine for reckless driving when he pleaded guilty in police court yesterday.

Elvie Morrow paid an $8 speeding fine yesterday in police court. Elvin Bremer, pleading not guilty yesterday to assault and battery charges, had his trial set for March 15 at 2 p. m. in the Santa Ana police court.

Mrs. Corinne E. Ward today had filed suit in superior court against Arthur V. Ward, asking a divorce on the ground of desertion and failure to provide. They married at Manzanola, Colorado, January 23, 1913, and separated March 12, 1935.

Foreclosure of a $2000 mortgage against property at El Modena was asked today in a superior court action filed by Minnie A. Gadow against R. Roberts Little and others.

Appeal was on file today in superior court from the recent judgment by Justice Charles Kuchel, of Anaheim, who denied the $390 suit brought by Ida Tipton against E. P. Wurts his costs, amounting to $3.60. The plaintiff suit for rental alleged to be due her on premises at 115 West Broadway, occupied by Wurts. Wurts, in his answer, alleged that late in 1932 he had offered to pay the plaintiff what he then owed her, and move from the premises, but that she urged him to stay there, as she was trying to sell the property to the federal government as a postoffice site, and having a tenant would make it more salable.

Can I Make a Dress for Myself and How Long Will It Take Me...?

Everyday during the Week Beginning March 11th

At 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. Miss Thelma S. Fahrenkrog, a Butterfield Dressmaking Consultant, direct from Headquarters, will cut, fit, and baste a dress, explaining each step as she proceeds, and in such an incredibly short time you will be surprised.

Then you will decide to make your clothes because it is so easy with the aid of a BUTTERICK PATTERN and DELTOR.

Be sure to see these demonstrations. Miss Fahrenkrog will be in our Pattern Department to answer your questions about:

How to fit properly (she'll pin-fit for you);
How to adapt the pattern to a difficult figure;
Which of the new patterns suits you best;
The best fabric for your pattern and you;
Any little puzzling problems that hinder your dressmaking.

THREAT

There are other things behind this strange dispute between the New Dealers and Comptroller McCarr. Grown-up officials do not lose their tempers ordinarily over such a question as whether the Navy should pay the return fare of the families of its officers stationed abroad. At least they do not continue to throw cannon balls at each other day after day on such a trivial pretext.

The resistance of McCarr against the speed of all New Deal expenditures is one explanation, but a deeper contributing reason is that McCarr may be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year. His name has never been publicly mentioned, but the New Dealers keep a close eye on the opposition camp as they do on their own. They have heard that McCarr is a potential candidate and have seen signs to verify it.

CHANCES

It is not as astonishing as it may sound. McCarr's term expires next year. He comes from the right section (Nebraska), has been out of the Republican political messes of the past 15 years, is a stickler for the law and for economy, holds old Progressive titles through Senator Norris, whose secretary he once was, and is a man who could certainly be attempted, although it might lead him to a Senate seat more easily than to the White House.

BARRELS

This matter was actually discussed at a recent secret meeting of New Dealers who have had spending trouble with McCarr. The agencies which have had greatest difficulty getting him to pay their expenditures are FHA, FVA, HOLC, AAA, NRA and PERA. The Treasury has had some trouble also, and probably others. The only New Dealer who has cut McCarr off is Reliance Harry Hopkins. When McCarr insisted on auditing all the CWA vouchers, Hopkins made no protest, but summoned a half dozen government trucks and sent the comptroller 15 barrels full of government checks. He then called McCarr on the telephone and said: "Let me know if you find anything wrong." McCarr should be through looking within 15 or 20 years, if he applies himself to the barrels diligently.

IF

Few know it, but the estate of the late William E. Humphrey is carrying on his court fight against his removal from the Federal Trade Commission. The suit he started against President Roosevelt before he died has been carried to the Supreme Court. It was quietly sent there January 28 by the Court of Claims, which held the issue as to whether Mr. Roosevelt had the power to fire Humphrey. If Mr. Roosevelt wins this suit, McCarr may have an opportunity to start a Presidential campaign before the expiration of his term.

TARIFF REDUCTION

The Whopkins New Deal publicists about the Belgian trade agreement did not say so, but there was a trick in that treaty. The lower import duties which we promised to Belgium, but to every other country. In other words, the reduction in tariff rates granted her are really general tariff reductions.

FRANKING

Jokes about Congressional abuse of the franking privilege are obsolete under the New Deal. It is not Congress, but the executive branch of the Government which is responsible for increased costs of carrying free mail.

DISORDER

Inner difficulties are developing in the communications commission which will make front page news sooner or later. The old radio commission crowd is not getting along at all with the new members. It is impossible to tell yet what form the break will take.

FORESIGHT

Townsend clubs are not confined to those over 60. From California comes reports of Townsend clubs made up exclusively of young people, one headed by a young lady in her teens. The reason officially given for the interest of youngsters in pensions for the old folks is that "it would insure them a better chance for happy marriages." Apparently some of the youngsters have their eyes set on the old boys and girls already.

INSPECTION

A new kind of automobile came rolling up to a downtown stoplight the other day. It was streamlined, with two wheels in front and one behind, with the motor over the rear seat. Pedestrians looked inside, and there, sure enough, was Mrs. Roosevelt. She was accompanied by her good friend, Amelia Earhart.

AGE

One of the heavier problems of government now is to find out the age of a retired Negro rail worker who cannot remember when he was born. The railroad pension board looked at him and decided he was past retirement age. But Comptroller McCarr informed the board unofficially that the pension cannot be paid unless some record is presented. There is no record. The matter has not yet developed beyond the conversational stage between McCarr and the pension board, but you may hear about it soon.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

SHOWS

If the Federation of Labor pulls a strike in the motor industry it won't be any mass affair. Leaders realize their forces are too feeble numerically to make much of a dent with a frontal assault. Informed New Yorkers hear they will take a leaf instead from the Mechanics' Educational Society book on guerrilla warfare. The idea being to pick out a few men in key jobs and thereby tie up thousands of others. The Educational Society has a remarkable record for getting what it wants with this kind of sniping.

WEIGHT

Recommendations for government action by unofficial groups are usually laughed off in New York. Not so the report of Edward A. Filene's Twentieth Century Fund urging a Federal Labor Commission and recognition of the principle of majority rule in collective bargaining. Conservatives are generally worried by the interest of this new factor in the coming battle over labor legislation. The more so the fact that those who signed the report are former NRA officials.

AGREEMENT

The Supreme Court's denial of the New York Milk Board's authority to regulate the price of milk coming into New York from outside knocked state control into the middle of next week. Attempts to enforce a price policy on New York producers would be worse than a joke now. The state's farmers—for whose benefit the law was framed—would be the worst sufferers. Dealers will naturally buy from Pennsylvania or Vermont or New Jersey if there's a price differential.

AN IRONIC ANGLE

An ironic angle is that the New York law has been considered so hopeless that other states which wanted to try milk control have copied it.

WALLOP

Published accounts of the recent educators' convention at Atlantic City give the impression that the anti-Hearst campaign among teachers is petering out. Insiders say there was plenty of evidence to the contrary—but it didn't get much of a play.

GOVERNOR

Chances are you never heard of Peter Ten Eyck, New York State's new Commissioner of Farms and Markets. Yet he once played a very important—if negative—part in shaping the nation's future. Insiders say that back in 1928 Ten Eyck had enough delegates lined up to make his nomination for Governor of New York a practical certainty. The only reason he didn't get it was because Al Smith in person stepped in and said, "No—it's to be Franklin D. Roosevelt." Mr. Ten Eyck—being a good soldier and a loyal friend of Smith's—graciously withdrew. The delegates he had pledged took Smith's advice. You can write your own ticket on what might have happened nationally if Smith hadn't horned in.

DUST

Utility leaders are well satisfied with the manner in which their security holders have responded to warnings about the holding company bill. Their Washington scouts report that the more dust in Congress than a Sahara sandstorm. School teachers in particular have been effective in their letters. Thousands were induced to put their slender all into holding company paper while the going was good. They are proving allies now of the full anticipated strength.

HAT IN RING

Marion B. Youel, below, rancher and insurance man, today announced his candidacy for re-election to the Santa Ana board of education.

YOU'EL SEEKS REELECTION TO SCHOOL BOARD

Announcement of his candidacy for re-election to the Santa Ana school board was made today by Marion B. Youel, Santa Ana rancher and insurance man, Youel, who lives at 520 East Seventeenth street, has served on the board during the past four years.

His statement follows:

"During the 16 years of my residence in the City of Santa Ana, I have been in contact with the schools from elementary through high school and junior college. Through all of this time some of my own children have been in attendance and active participation, and now the completion of four years of service on the board of education, all have deepened my interest in the school program of Santa Ana.

"Numerous citizens suggest that tasks already started, especially school plants, be completed under the direction of those who initiated the building program.

"Therefore, with the good of the school system uppermost, and at the request of citizens and taxpayers, I again offer my service, if it please a majority of the electorate, as a member of the board of education."

Free Inspection Of Car Offered By Knox Brothers

In step with the growing trend emphasizing the necessity for greater safety in motoring to drivers, passengers and pedestrians, Knox Brothers, Sixth and Sycamore, local Oldsmobile dealers announce that a special safety campaign will be sponsored by that organization starting today.

This campaign is being conducted by Oldsmobile dealers throughout the country and has been especially developed with the idea of furthering the safety activities of local, state and national organizations.

The six points which play an important part in the safe operation of a motor car are tires, lights, horn, windshield wiper, brakes and steering. Each and every one of these items should be kept in perfect working order.

The six point safety campaign is designed to urge every motorist, no matter what make of car he drives, to bring his car to the garage at regular intervals and have each of these six safety points of his car thoroughly tested for correct operation by experienced mechanics. There will be no charge for this inspection.

combined to groom Ten Eyck quietly for a belated reward. They claim there's no conflict with Farley's alleged gubernatorial aspirations. "Circumstances might develop which would make Farley unavailable. In that case he might want to be in a position to name the actual nominee."

ASSERTIVE

There's a side evidence also that Smith is much stronger behind the scenes in state politics than the world knows—and that he's cooperating with Lehman and Farley for Democratic harmony at Albany.

SHREW

Shrewd sources claim his defense of Robert Moses in the Ickes row is not the contradiction it seems to be. They say it's his way of serving notice on Farley that he'll work with him in the state—but the city is something else again and that the time is coming when Tammany (plus Brooklyn) will reassert local independence—probably under Smith leadership.

CANDIDATE

Dr. S. L. Aubin, below, today announced that he was a candidate for the city council from the first ward.

DR. AUBIN TO MAKE RACE FOR COUNCIL SEAT

Dr. S. L. Aubin, well-known chiropractor and druggist practitioner, announced his candidacy for councilman from the first ward, and stated his campaign program will be as follows:

"First. Economy in spending the taxpayers' money; lower taxes without cutting salaries or wages or lowering the efficiency of the different departments of the city.

"Second. Efficiency and courtesy in conducting the city business; justice and equality for all; protection for the merchant and working men of Santa Ana from out-of-town merchants and working men. I pledge myself to support and promote the Townsend old age pension plan.

"Third. To promote the city beautiful, progressive and modern, moral and clean. That the city officials should co-operate with the planning commission, the chamber of commerce, the school board and the board of health in making Santa Ana a most desirable place, in which people will desire to establish their homes. My campaign is not promoted by any group or political clique.

"Dr. Aubin has been a resident of Santa Ana 16 years, and a taxpayer. He is well known for his humanitarian work, was formerly president of the Orange County Humane society and for several years was a director in the State Association of Chiropractors and Druggists. He is married, and resides at 122 Orange avenue. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, Order of the Eastern Star and White Shrine. He attends the First Baptist church.

Election Notices Before Placentia Board On Monday

PLACENTIA, March 9.—Members of the school board of the Placentia Grammar School district will hold a meeting Monday afternoon, when the matter of the location of the polling place for the March 29 election will be settled.

Two notices have been posted, one by the school board, calling the election for the Bradford school, and one by a citizens' committee designating the Richfield school as the polling place. The citizens' committee claims that the notice by the school board failed to give the required 30 days' notice of the election and that the election at the Bradford school would be open to contest.

A statement issued by the committee, J. D. Duer, E. G. Tweed and E. A. Rodick, was to the effect they acted on the advice of William Menton, deputy district attorney, in posting the notice and in specifying the Richfield school as the polling place. Under the state law, a citizens' committee of three may post notices of an election 15 days prior to the election date in the event the school board has failed to notify the voters, it is claimed.

GIRL'S LEAGUE PRESENT PLAY BEFORE CROWD

FULLERTON, March 9.—More than 900 attended the performance of the comedy of youth, "Peg o' My Heart," given by the Girls' league of Fullerton Union High school at the school auditorium under direction of Dorothy Newton, Friday night.

The play was supplemented by numbers of the Fullerton Union High school orchestra, directed by Harold Walberg.

Glen Landreth, who took the part of the hero in the play, was awarded a $5 prize for having sold the most tickets for the production.

Those taking parts were Lucille Neiman, playing Mrs. Chichester; Willard Zinn, Jervie

SILKEN SPINDLES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GAL HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father.
STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.
Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he can learn her name.
VICKY THATCHER, daughter of ROBERT THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.
Gale and Steve quarrel, later make up.
Vicky sees Gale in Brian's office one afternoon and suspects there is an affair between them. Vicky leaves in a rage, determined to show Gale she cannot take Brian from her.
Sunday morning Gale answers a knock on the door. A young man says, "Special delivery for Miss Gale Henderson."
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

Gale took the sheet of paper and pencil. She said, "What—?" then stopped. In an entirely different tone she went on, "What are you doing here?"
Brian Westmore pushed the cap back from his eyes, grinned encouragingly. "I came," he said, "to tell you it's exactly the sort of day to be out tramping around. Won't you come exploring with me?"
"Exploring?"
Brian nodded. "Yes. Down by the river, out toward Deer Creek. Have you ever been there? We might find a chest buried treasure in a haunted house. I used to go there on exploration trips whenever I had the chance when I was a kid. Used to sneak away from home. Once I found a nest of baby field mice and a harmonica that could only play two notes. And another time I discovered a cave. I was sure no one else had ever seen it. I haven't been out there in five years—longer than that, I guess—but it was always fun. Won't you come?"
"I shouldn't," Gale began.
"Please! It's a crime to stay indoors on a day like this. And remember, we may find buried treasure."

Gale smiled. She said, "I shouldn't—but I will. Wait until I get my hat and coat."
Five minutes she was back. She had changed her house dress for the short blue skirt she wore for skating and a sweater. Over this she wore her leather jacket, and her hair was tucked under a scarlet tam of shanter.
Brian sat on the top step, the youngest O'Connor beside him.
He thumbed the twigs of the four-year-old announced, tilting his head on one side and gazing with rapt attention at Brian's hands moved deftly. Brian said, "Watch it now!" and suddenly the fingers that had been linked together were separated and yet the links had not been broken.
"Thay!" the youngster exclaimed excitedly. "How'd you do that?"
The young man stood up grinning. "It's the magic words," he said. "Mumbo-jumbo, umpty-umpty. Say them and you can do it every time. Got to be on my way now."

He and Gale went down the steps, leaving the youngster to experiment with the new trick. They heard the babyish voice repeating "Mumbo-jumbo, umpty-umpty."
Gale said, "You shouldn't have told him that. He'll be working away at that trick for the next four hours."
"Well, it won't hurt him, will it?"
If eyes were peering out from behind curtained windows, there was nothing to arouse comment in the sight of Gale and her companion. Brian's windbreaker and corduroys and the old cap were the sort of clothes to which the mill village was accustomed.
Gale glanced at him and asked, "Where'd you get the disguise?"
"You mean these clothes? They're among my most cherished possessions—had them for years. They've been on hunting trips and fishing trips here and abroad. Mother rages whenever she sees them and every so often I have to rescue them from destruction. So far I've been lucky. Handsome, don't you think?"
"Very," Gale agreed. She meant it. There was a jaunty, vagabond tilt to Brian's cap. Broad-shouldered, tall, lithe, he swung along beside her. She thought he looked much more attractive than in his carefully tailored business clothes. More vigorous. More the outdoor man. Had she never realized before how dark his eyes were, or was it the brown leather jacket that gave them glints of amber?
He said, "Did you say you've never been to Deer Creek?"
"Lots of times, but not since—oh, not for ages!"
"Then we'll really be exploring." He went on, telling her of adventures he'd had as a youngster. Gale was glad that he said nothing about the scene in his office when Vicky Thatcher arrived a few days before. Gale hadn't seen Brian since, but that episode was, apparently, to be forgotten. She'd felt silly and foolish about it; now she was relieved.
They had been walking toward the river and now were in sight of it. The ice was covered with water and, where the road cut through, a band of sunshine fell across it, glistening like diamonds. Gale said, "Look how the ice has melted. Another week and it will be gone."

"It will be if this weather keeps up. Ah—here is where the exploration begins!"
They turned into a narrow path, way through the trees. Faded, colorless leaves crackled under their feet. There was a pungent scent in the air—the scene of earth and damp leaves and tree bark. The path was winding, and here and there a small streamlet and shrubs had spread their low branches, almost blocking the way.

Gale called out, "Shouldn't we not the trees leave a trail of some sort so we can find our way back?"
"Not necessary," Brian assured her from ahead. "We won't come back this way anyhow."
The path swung nearer to the river and presently they were beside it. It was warm in the sunshine. Trees behind broke the wind. Suddenly Brian halted and motioned for silence. Gale crept up behind him.
"What is it?" she asked.
He pointed to a tree a few yards ahead. A red squirrel sat on a low branch, its tiny, bead-like eyes glistening and darting from left to right. In its paws the squirrel held an acorn it had been nibbling. It hesitated a moment, then began eating again. A moment later it dropped the acorn, disappeared.
"There!" Gale whispered, pointing.
The squirrel's head came into view on the opposite side of the tree trunk. Brian picked up an acorn from the ground, moved forward cautiously. But the squirrel was not to be tempted. It ran up the tree again and sat there, chattering loudly.
Gale and Brian walked on. She told him about the squirrel she and Phil had taught to eat from their hands years ago and how he had grown bold enough to perch on Phil's shoulder. Brian described the pet coon a friend of his had owned. He told her about animals he had seen, the zoon in New York and in Europe. He was fond of animals, particularly bears and monkeys.

His stories were amusing and he told them well. They walked on and on and the sun that had been shining brightly slid behind the tree tops. Now and then they heard a bird's song and saw a flash of feathers. Brian told there was motion in the undergrowth which meant that a rabbit or chipmunk was scurrying for cover. Otherwise they were alone. It was their world—a world of sunshine and rustling branches and earthy odors.
They came to a place where the river made a wide bend. There was a clearing here and several abandoned camps. The trees started in the distance, leaving a ribbon of pure gold on the water. At either side, near the shore, were shadows of deeper purple.
Gale halted. "Oh," she said, "did you ever see anything lovelier?"
"Never."
She pulled off her hat and let the wind ruffle her hair. "This has been the grandest afternoon I've had in a long time," she said. "I told you exploring is fun."
"But we haven't really done any exploring."
"What did you expect to find?"
"A chest of buried treasure. Isn't that what you promised me?"
She was smiling at him. The wind blew her hair back and it curled into careless ringlets. There was a warm glow of color in her cheeks. She raised her chin and Brian saw again the soft, white line of her throat. He said, "I'd like to paint you like that."
Gale laughed. "I'm afraid I'd be a poor model."
"You'd be a perfect one," he told her. "Can I try it some day? Will you let me sketch you?"
"Why, yes—if you want to. Have you been painting much lately?"
"I haven't touched a brush or pencil since I left Paris. I haven't wanted to—until now."
Gale was silent. Brian went on after a moment. "You're an unusual girl, do you know that? Different from anyone I've ever known. I thought I wanted to talk to you about the mill, but you've made me forget all about that. You make me forget everything—"

His arms were around her.
(To Be Continued)

They turned into a narrow path, way through the trees. Faded, colorless leaves crackled under their feet. There was a pungent scent in the air—the scene of earth and damp leaves and tree bark. The path was winding, and here and there a small streamlet and shrubs had spread their low branches, almost blocking the way.

NEW MORNING GYM CLASS TO START

A new gymnasium class for busy men was announced today by R. C. Smedley, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. who said that on Monday morning there is to be a class started at 8 o'clock, which will continue on Monday and Wednesday mornings for the benefit of business and professional men whose duties make it inconvenient for them to attend the afternoon classes.
All men who desire to start with the new group are invited to be on hand Monday morning ready for half hour exercise. Smedley said that the class work will start promptly at 8:05, and will include 20 minutes of vigorous exercise, followed by one game of volleyball, the class to end at 8:40 so that the men may be at their offices by 9 o'clock.
The usual afternoon classes carry on as usual, with volleyball on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock, and the special health exercise class conducted by Elmer Heidt on Tuesday and Thursday at the same hour.
The class for men and women, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson, meets on Monday, Thursday and Saturday nights at 7:30 o'clock for an hour of health exercises. This is open to all men and women who are interested, and visitors are welcome to inspect the work being done.

Anniversaries

MARCH 9
1862—Battle between Monitor and Merrimack, Civil War.

MORAL VIEWS OF STUDENTS STUDY TOPIC

"Teaching Modern Moral Virtues and Values in a World of Materialism" is the topic for the discussion of adolescent problems at the third of a series of six weekly study meetings under the auspices of the adult education department, at Willard school library Monday evening.
The series is sponsored by the high school P.T.A., headed by Mrs. Merrill Hollingsworth. Mrs. Newell Moore, parent education director under the adult education department, leads the discussion, which deals with replies of more than 900 high school students to a recent questionnaire.
Monday's discussion will cover such questions as "How many boys and girls admit drinking and smoking regularly, or occasionally?" "How many nights out do most of the students average?" "Where are the most popular places to go?" "What do they say about spending money?" "How many own cars?" "What do they consider to be their greatest faults?"
The discussion will be closed by a talk given by Dr. Edward Lee Russell, assistant county health officer, who will present his views on the subjects.

PEACE OFFICERS OPPOSE STATE POLICE FORCE

Two resolutions, vigorously expressing the disapproval of the Orange County Peace Officers' association on two proposed bills, were dispatched today to Senator Nelson Edwards of Orange, Assembly Speaker Ted Craig of Brea and Assemblyman James Utt of Santa Ana.
The first resolution concerned the proposed bill to abolish the sheriff's office and constable's office and centralize law enforcement activity at Sacramento, and the granting of authority to the attorney general to appoint a state chief of police who shall appoint all the deputies to perform criminal work throughout the state.
The resolution declared that the peace officers here believe that law enforcement activity should be retained in the respective communities as now prevails in order that the local people may have the law enforced in accordance with their desires.
The second resolution opposed the Alcazar bill or crime prevention bill, which includes the prohibition of the possession of pistols and manufacture, sale, loan, rent, lease, barter or exchange of pistols and providing for their confiscation and destruction and providing penalties for violation.
The resolution pointed out that this bill would deprive the law-abiding citizens of necessary means of protection, curtail training of citizens in the use of firearms, will not prevent criminals from obtaining firearms, provides no additional penalty for law violators using such firearms, and "will only result in giving real criminals an advantage over the persons whom they prey upon and deprive the law-abiding citizens of the state of necessary means of protection."

Heavy Plymouth Sales Made In City In January

Plymouth cars outsold all other makes in Santa Ana and Orange county for January and there were half as many sales in Santa Ana as for all other makes combined. It was learned today from Otto Haan, Plymouth dealer at 505 South Main street.
Haan's agency broke all records in 1934 for dealers and the Greer-Robbins distributing company of Los Angeles, and the heavy sale of cars to date this year will insure a high rating for 1935, it is said.
Figures just received from the Motor Recorder for January show that there were 23 Plymouths delivered in Santa Ana while the car with the second highest sales sold 14 cars and the car with the third highest sales sold three. The next five cars sold three each and the next three two each.
Haan pointed out that the 23 Plymouths consisted just half the combined sales of all other makes, since there were 46 cars delivered in the city.

Egg Prices To Be Topic At County Poultry Meeting

The Orange county local of the Poultrymen's co-operative association will hold its regular meeting next Monday evening, March 11, in the Farm Bureau office at 618 1-2 North Main street, Santa Ana.
Following general business of the association a discussion of the subject "Prospective Egg Prices for 1935" will be led by George W. Howard, egg salesman of the association.
All patrons, members and friends are urged to attend according to announcement issued by D. A. Intyre, chairman.

News From Orange And Nearby Towns

EVELYN SMITH TELLS WEDDING IN LAS VEGAS

ORANGE, March 9.—The marriage of Miss Evelyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smith, 255 North Center street, to Harold Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thomas, of Tustin, on January 22, 1934, was announced Friday night at a bridge party given in the Smith home. The marriage took place at Las Vegas, Nev.
A St. Patrick's day theme was stressed in the decorations for the home and for the card tables, when a delectable refreshment was served after the card game. The interesting news was revealed when guests found the announcement of the marriage written on tiny cream-colored scrolls concealed in miniature nosegays at each table.
The young people are to make their home in Laguna Beach. Their marriage was the culmination of a romance which began in early school days. Both are graduates of the Orange Union High school and Mrs. Thomas later attended the Fullerton Junior college.

Prizes at the bridge game went to Mrs. Randal Fairbairn, of Montebello, first, and to Mrs. Percy Everett, second.
Those bidden to the affair were Mrs. Randal Fairbairn, Mrs. G. A. Myracle, Mrs. Albert Aming, Mrs. Santa Ana, Miss Rosalie Smith, Mrs. Lawrence Leitch, Mrs. Frances Robinson, Miss Grace Walker, of Pasadena; Mrs. Albert Thomas, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Harold Peters, Miss Ruth Prentiss, of Los Angeles, Miss Betty Spennetta, Mrs. Charles Richardson, Miss Lydia Walker, Mrs. Clarence Bandick and Miss Dorothy Jardine, Miss Madeline Seavy, Mrs. George Smith, Miss Mrs. Everett, of Ojai; Mrs. Percy Everett and Miss Grace Robertson, of Santa Ana.

FLOWERS BLOOMING IN MANY VALLEYS

Wild flowers are appearing early in many parts of Southern California and give promise of one of the finest displays in a decade, according to reports to the Automobile Club of Southern California. Among the areas which are already attractive to sight-seers are the following:
Fullerton: Fields of lupine in Carbon canyon, on the hills north and east of Brea and La Habra Heights, and on the Yorba Linda hills. Also in the San Jose hills south of Pomona, on the hills between Valley boulevard and the Holt-Garvey road, along the slopes of Pothill boulevard and east of Glendora.
Porterville: Exceptional displays of wild flowers in the area around the Tule River Indian reservation near Porterville.
Taft: Profuse scatterings of wild flowers west of Maricopa, over Grocer grade and throughout Cuyama valley.
Riverside: Poppies out in profusion in Temescal canyon. A solid mass of lupine borders the shore of Lake Elsinore.
San Bernardino: A few lupine and miscellaneous wild flowers in the area north and west of San Bernardino and around Adelanto.
San Diego: Wild lilac is just beginning to bloom along the Poway grade and within a week the Lakeside Ramona and Juliet highway will be beautified by these lovely flowers.
There are vast fields of anemone on U. S. 101 just south of Ocean-side and near Vista. Although cultivated, these vivid colored blooms attract as much attention as their wild cousins.

ORANGE, March 9.—A St. Patrick's motif was carried out in decorations for the regular bi-monthly meeting of the U. S. A. club held Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. W. Perkins in Garden Grove. Sewing and visiting occupied members during the afternoon hours.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held March 22 in the home of Mrs. Otto Ristow. Miss Luella Outright will be co-hostess. Refreshments stressing a green and white color scheme were served around an open fireplace.

CENTER GROUP GIVEN FACTS ON GARDENING

OLIVE, March 9.—A talk on gardening and a salad demonstration in charge of Mrs. Royal Mueller, Mrs. R. J. Mankosky and Mrs. Emil Roddeck were features of the meeting of the Home department of the Pothill Farm center at the Rodeck home Friday. Decorations for the home were carried out with quantities of fragrant spring blooms.

Fourteen kinds of salads were made and later were served to those present with varied dressings. Mrs. L. A. Bortz and Mrs. Anna Linnarts were appointed as a committee to make arrangements for an entry in the Orange May day parade by the members of the Girls' 4-H clubs and Mrs. R. S. Prest was appointed to make plans for recreation at home department meetings. Reports of a trip to the recently landscaped gardens surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Bishop on Fairhaven avenue, were given by several women.

Mrs. Homer Wing gave a report of a county directors' meeting and Mrs. L. A. Bortz, county president, a report of the organization of the Associated Women of American Farm Bureau federations at Nashville, Tenn. In December, 1934, California was the second group to join the national group and New Hampshire the first. Mrs. Bortz stated. A plant exchange was conducted at the close of the meeting.

Those present were Mesdames L. A. Bortz, George Franzen, A. H. Helm, Homer Wing, Anna Slater, Selma I. Kothe, R. S. Prest, G. L. Bauer, Mattie D. Robbins, W. B. Nuckolls, A. D. Christman, R. J. Mankosky, Emil Roddeck, Royal Mueller, A. D. Bode, a Minnesota visitor, and P. E. Harrison, and Miss Margaret Holditch.

4-H CLUB

ORANGE, March 9.—Members of the West Orange 4-H club with H. J. Hinrichs as leader are to meet tonight at the American Legion clubhouse at 7:30 o'clock. Individual improvement is to be taken as a particular activity of the club this year and the direction this is to take will come up for discussion.

MRS. R. JONES PRESIDENT OF CHURCH GROUP

ORANGE, March 8.—With a large number in attendance, a program observing World Day of Prayer was given at the First Christian church Friday by the Federated Church Women's group of this city. Mrs. R. W. Jones was elected president to succeed Mrs. F. H. Rhode and Miss Angeline Courtney was re-elected secretary. Mrs. Jones served as vice president last year.

A morning prayer service was held with the theme, "Bear Ye One Another's Burdens." Program were made out by Baroness Van Boetelster Van Dubeldam of Holland. Mrs. R. W. Jones presided. At noon a covered dish dinner was served.

The afternoon session was featured by two addresses, one by Miss Grace Moody, of El Modena, a returned missionary from Honduras, and one by Mrs. J. Alvin Shirley, wife of the pastor of the Trinity Episcopal church, who was engaged in mission work in Alaska with her husband for a number of years.

A stirring address on the dangers to youth from alcoholic advertisements, with special reference to beer advertising on the radio, was given by Pearl Kendall Hess. Mrs. Hess, who is giving educational addresses on scientific temperance to school children, stated that it is appalling to hear children tell of drinking which is indulged in by their parents.

Mrs. Minnie Neville spoke on "Peace," calling attention to work being done to promote international peace and stating that the youth of the country is becoming more peace-minded. Mrs. L. L. Williams gave a talk on missions and Mrs. Jennie Corner on "Migrants."

Mrs. Conner spoke with special reference to migrants in America who follow the crops from place to place. She stated that there are one and a half million in the United States and of these 200,000 are children.
Closing devotionals were in charge of Ross Atherton, returned missionary from Africa, and the Rev. H. F. Sheerer of the First Baptist church.

10 NEW BOOKS REVIEWED FOR NEWPORT EBELL

Reviews of 10 current books were given members of the Newport Beach Eebl club at their regular meeting Thursday by Mrs. Merrilee White, Balboa Island. Included in the books reviewed by Mrs. White were "In the Shadow of Lilith" by Corci; "Yonder Sails the Mayflower," by Morrow; "Manhattan Acres," Watson; "Yallahs Forge," Anderson; "America's Tragedy," Adams; "Where Nothing Ever Happens," Shippey; "American Family," Baldwin; "A House Divided," Buck; "Come and Get It," Ferber, and "The Folk," Su-

Plans were formulated for a charity bazaar to be held during Easter week by members of the ways and means committee of the club. The committee and club members will meet to further their plans next week at the home of Mrs. H. E. Stahler, in Balboa.

It was also announced that Garden section will visit the Poincettas flower show on March 10. The speaker will be a member of the group, Lieut. John V. Duvel who will be next speaker at the regular club meeting this month, it was announced. Duvel has been making a series of talks before the club in the vicinity, describing "trapping, hunting and fishing adventures" over the world. Mrs. King Jones and Mrs. C. M. Deskins are the hostesses as this week's meeting.

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

Where Nothing Ever Happens by Lee Shippey, published by Houghton Mifflin Company.

"Where Nothing Ever Happens" is the small town of 900 people which this author knows best. There are 13 more or less separated chapters, most of them making perfectly unified short stories yet all connected because of the locale, the personnel and finally a suspense feature, namely a crime mystery.

The layman, to whom it may be a new truth, and at that only as true as most of such broad statements are, will be interested in Mr. Shippey's remark that many a man has been made famous because some struggling and convincingly imaginative correspondent wanted a few more inches at 30 cents an inch, or whatever his paper paid. Mr. Shippey actually shows in the book that the village where nothing ever happens is a show window of the world, in which all human passions work their alchemy on our hearts, bringing us love and hate, greed and sacrifice, romance and crime, hypocrisy and nobility, according to different ways in which we see and react to the same thing.

Here is one more testimonial for the humanity of the small town. It has the advantage, to us in California, of being set in our own section. Among the characters, found in most small towns, is the misunderstood recluse, the rich man burdened with sorrow, the chap who left the small town and made good in the great world. To the latter story there is a novel twist. This young chap, Walter, was a pianist. His parents and his uncle and aunt combined to pay for his musical education. After some years of study he returned to the town. Proud of their son and nephew the father and mother, uncle and aunt and all the leading lights of the village assembled to see Walter and hear him play. He played and they followed a most pathetic scene. Later Paderewski himself pronounced Walter a lad of promise so it all had a happy ending. "Where Nothing Ever Happens" is a wholesome, heart-warming book.

Balletomania by Arnold Haskell, published by Simon and Schuster. "Balletomania" serves to inform the public about the ballet as "Death in the Afternoon" serves to inform the public about bullfighting. The incongruity of comparison, bordering on bad taste arise from the difference between ballet and bullfighting. But at that the technique of the matador at a definite few points is comparable to the technique of the dancer.

The final chapter of "Balletomania" has not been written for most of those who read it. That final chapter, as it will be conceived by the readers was the recent performance of the Monte Carlo ballet in Los Angeles. It is interesting and makes the book so pleasantly up-to-date to get out one's souvenir program of the Monte Carlo company and read the evaluation which this author in some cases places upon the various members and the biographic sketches which he gives.

Thamar Karsavina has said that Arnold Haskell has such enthusiasm for the ballet that he could organize a ballet even in the Bank of England. For years he has enthusiastically followed the ballet, attended performances regularly, studied the great artists of the ballet, watched the promising amateurs, hoped for the future of the ballet which nurtured the heritage of the past.

Certainly everyone who read "Nijinsky" in which the Diaghileff-Nijinsky relations was so brutally exposed should read this more sane evaluation of Diaghileff. The book is an encyclopedia of the ballet—yet not so much an explanation of technique as of the ballet traditions. The importance of choreography, particularly, is emphasized so as to add immeasurably to one's understanding and appreciation of the ballet, if one has not hitherto appreciated it.

Of the dance concert which is the means most of us have available for enjoying the dance, he says: In truth the dance concert is usually a piece of monstrous impudence on the part of its giver; the sole motive being to follow the lines of least resistance.

He makes the point that a ballerina is fortunate in finding her rival for each spurs the other on, each being conscious of the critical observation of her rival.

There seemed to be an ironic

correctness that Colonel De Basil who has a war record as a man of resource and accomplishment should have successfully revived the Russian ballet and beawakening a great interest in the art. This another pays high tribute to De Basil's ability. Yet Mr. Haskell says of this happy circumstance: "It is still a complete mystery to me, in spite of our intimacy, how this typical soldier has come to be in command of the finest artistic force in the world."

For those who worship the past of the ballet the author has a special word: Today we should not be looking for second Pavlovas or second anyone's but for a fresh, young personality, who will in her turn be used as a standard of comparison, until such time as her successor comes along; someone who will not flash past, film star fashion, to the accompaniment of applause, parties and flowers, but will leave an indelible mark on her epoch.

There is a growing interest in ballet in this country. There is developing, even, an American ballet, as there has developed an English ballet, according to Arnold Haskell. There are insurmountable distinctions forever setting the Russian tradition apart from these new branches, but they are promising and certainly serve to indicate the increasing interest in the art which should make this book popular to the thousands who have attended the performances of the Monte Carlo ballet, have read "Theatre Street" and "Nijinsky," to mention only a few of the contacts with the great ballet tradition which have been prominent in the last few years.

"Memory of Love," by Bessie Breuer.

"Memory of Love" is moderately revolutionary. It launches forth in conformity to all the rules for the sensual, extra-marital type of love affair. One's sympathies are never betrayed to much sympathy for the principals of the affair for the man is rather a rake who has had countless affairs and we feel that in spite of his confidence that this affair is different and his assurance to his sweetheart that it is utterly different that it really is another in a long line of sensual affairs. It departs from the ordinary, however, after he has succeeded in winning the hitherto quite respectable lady to clandestine rendezvous for his family and his wife have come to the end of their patience and he is completely cut off from financial support. It is a most ignominious end to a sparkling love affair and undoubtedly this original denouement probably accounts for its one claim for distinction.

Mrs. Eaton writes, "I am merely a housewife with one daughter, married, go to church fairly regularly, go to a lot of bridge parties and spend the rest of the time writing from which I get a lot of pleasure." And so I get a lot of readers.

WHEN SPRING HAS COME
Each winter we watched, eagerly for spring—
We dreamed of blue skies and the song of birds;
We felt the joy of every pregnant thing.

Stir deep within us. Often put in words
The wonder of new leaves, green spears of grass;
And flames of Judas-trees upon the hill;

The whiteness of plum blossoms, winds that pass
At dawn when earth is laying hushed and still.

This year I watch alone . . . When spring has come
And wrought her miracle on field and tree;
Will slow tears veil my eyes, my heart be numb
With this swift grief the winter brought to me?

Will spring that wakes to beauty barren lands
Bear healing balm for sorrow in her hands?

THIS HOUR
I will return to you when crimson

My lips will touch your hair in swift caressing
Softly, as leaves by cool night breeze are stirred;
My voice, low as a penitent's confessing
Will call you by a dear remembered word.

There is no death; there is only a sleeping . . .
And when the tumult of the day is flown
I will return to you who will be keeping
This hour for me, this hour we call our own.

TWIN BILL AT BROADWAY WILL OPEN THURSDAY

Carl Brisson and Mary Ellis, singing stars, are brought together in the leading romantic role of "All the King's Horses," a blend of comedy, melody and romance which comes to the Broadway theater for an engagement of three days with a second feature, "Captain Hurricane." It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Assisted by a cast that includes Edward Everett Horton, Katherine DeMille and Eugene Pallette, Brisson and Miss Ellis enact the story of a king and queen whose public life interferes with their romance. The king sneaks off to try the gray life of "Tennis," leaving a double in his place. When the queen mistakes the double for his Majesty and the king can't be found, a royal crisis threatens.

"Captain Hurricane" is a quaint and dramatic picture of Cape Cod life of today which features James Barton, Helen Westley, Helen Mack and Gene Lockhart. A thrilling rescue in a raging sea is one of the many exciting scenes in the picture, which also carries a double romance. Considerable attention was paid to securing the correct and quaint atmosphere of the unique Cape Cod area, where life appears to be the same today as it was years ago.

Short subjects on the program will include a cartoon, "Two Little Lambs," "Switzerland the Beautiful," a color cartoon, and Register World News events.

'LONE COWBOY' ENDS RUN HERE TONIGHT

Featured players with Jackie Cooper in "Lone Cowboy," which shows for the last times at Walker's State theater tonight, are Lila Lee, Addison Richards and John Wray. The picture, which is based on Will James' book by the same name, tells the story of a youngster who is sent west to live with a friend of the family, who has sored on the world because his wife has left him for another man. Jackie finally wins his way into the man's heart and completes his regeneration.

Other subjects on the program are the last chapter of "The Vanishing Shadow," a news reel, a Popeye cartoon, "We Aim to Please," and an Andy Clyde comedy, "Half Baked Relations."

Broadway to Show Two New Pictures

A double feature program with "While the Patient Sleeps" and "Times Square Lady" will open at the Broadway theater on March 21. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"While the Patient Sleeps" is the second murder mystery drama to be produced under the insignia of the Crime Club, and is an unusual type of mystery play, for it is packed with humor and rollicking laughter, as well as thrills, suspense and creepy situations. Fountain said, Aline MacMahon, Guy Kibbee, Allen Jenkins, Eddie Shubert, Lyle Talbot and Patricia Ellis have important roles.

Robert Taylor and Pinkie Tomlin are featured in the new and modern drama, "Times Square Lady."

"ANN OF GREEN GABLES" COMES TO WALKER'S

One of the outstanding fine pictures of recent months, "Ann of Green Gables," comes to Walker's State theater tomorrow for a three day run on the same bill with a dramatic thriller, "Against the Law." Manager Vic Walker announced today.

"Ann of Green Gables" is based on the famous book of that name and portrays the story in which a family quarrel of long standing rises to menace the happiness of two young lovers, played by Ann Shirley and Tom Brown. The public takes a dramatic turn of affairs when a life is at stake. The supporting cast includes Helen Westley and O. P. Heggie. The other feature on the program is an exciting tale of a police ambulance driver who is involved in a gang feud through the implication of the young interne assigned to his ambulance. Johnny Mack Brown has the leading role. Others include Sally Blane, George Meeker and Arthur Hohl. The short subject on the program is "Plane Crazy."

The mid-week attractions are "Bombay Mail," a mystery story set on a luxurious train in India, and "Cleopatra," with Claudette Colbert, who was recently awarded the trophy for the best performance of the year. The mystery concerns the slaying of a British colonial governor and a maharajah while the crack train is speeding across India. The cast includes Edmund Lowe, Shirley Grey, Onslow Stevens and Hedda Hopper. "Cleopatra" is a lavish spectacle revealing the story of the love of the queen of the Nile for great Roman rulers. Warren William has the role of Julius Caesar and Henry Wilcoxon that of Marc Antony. "Wax Works," an Oswald cartoon complete the bill.

Friday and Saturday brings John Wayne in a thrilling western story, "Randy Rides Alone," the first chapter of a new serial, "Young Eagles," based on the adventures of a pair of Boy Scouts; a news reel, a cartoon and a comedy.

New Shirley Temple Film Coming Soon

For the first time in her screen career, little Shirley Temple is revealed literally in her true and natural colors in a full-color Technicolor climax in "The Little Colonel," which opens at the Broadway theatre on Sunday, March 17.

"The Little Colonel" brings America's darling to the screen in a story adapted from the book favorite especially for the child prodigy who sings, dances and acts with equal charm. Lionel Barrymore is co-starred with Shirley.

Scenes of the picture are set on a Kentucky plantation during the eventful days following the Civil war. It has a strong plot with tense drama and relieved by comedy.

Book New Films For West Coast

Announcement of the booking of three new films which will show at the West Coast theater in the near future was made today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Lottery Lover," a gay romance of the Paris boulevards where gallant young cadets meet the queen of the Folies Bergere featuring "Pat" Paterson and Lew Ayres, will open on March 20 with "Woman in the Dark," written by Dashiell Hammett, author of "The Thin Man" in which Fay Wray, Ralph Bellamy and Melvin Douglas have the featured roles.

"Ruggles of Red Gap," well known story which depicts the adventures of a stolid English butler in a bustling Western town, will open on March 23 with Charles Laughton, noted stage and screen actor, Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, ZaSu Pitts and Roland Young in the principal roles.

THREE STARS IN "ROBERTA"

Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, below, are the triumvirate of screen stars illuminating the de luxe musical comedy, "Roberta," played against the background of Paris' salons and clothes pageants, which opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater.

STARS OF "RUMBA"

George Raft and Carole Lombard, dancing stars of the recent hit, "Bolero," are united again in a sensational new film, "Rumba," which opens tomorrow at the West Coast theater along with a second feature, "Maybe It's Love," a modern love drama, with Gloria Stuart and Ross Alexander.

"ONE MORE SPRING" TWO FEATURES AT WEST COAST END

Brought together in mid-winter in a big city park, Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor learn the true meaning of life in an exciting new romance which unites the stars again as screen sweethearts in "One More Spring," which shows for the last times tonight at the Broadway theater.

In "One More Spring" Baxter is cast as a ruined antique dealer who brings his one relic, a Napoleon bed, to a city park and finds refuge in a disused tool-house. An odd assortment of human beings trickle thither, and among them, a lovely soul whose spirit has all but crushed.

In the supporting cast are Walter King, Jane Darwell, Roger Imhof, Grant Mitchell, Rosemary Ames, John Qualen, Nick Foran and the inimitable colored comedian, Stepin Fetchit.

TWIN BILL AT "ROBERTA" TO WEST COAST TO OPEN SUNDAY AT BROADWAY

Two feature films of such contrasting nature that entertainment for all is assured open at the West Coast theater tomorrow for an engagement of four days, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain. The pictures are "Maybe It's Love" and "Rumba."

With a rhythmic undertone of jungle tom-toms, "Rumba" brings George Raft and Carole Lombard back to the screen in an even greater success than their first co-starring effort, "Bolero." Filled with elaborate and fascinating rhythms, some of LeRoy Prinz's most successful chorus routines, sparkling photography and gorgeous costumes, it tells the vivid, poignant and human love story of a tempestuous dancer and a fascinating beauty.

Miss Lombard and Raft are the principals in the drama "Rumba," which takes its characters from Havana to New York through dancing, gaiety, and what at times seems like inevitable heartbreak. A series of carefully planned climaxes brings the film to its major climax when Raft dances on the stage with Miss Lombard in defiance to gangster's threats and guns. Prominent in the supporting cast are Marco, petite Mexican beauty and dancer; Iris Adrian, Lynne Overman, Monroe Owsley and Gail Patrick.

"Maybe It's Love" is a sparkling, ultra modern drama of the trials and troubles of a pair of young lovers with Gloria Stuart and Ross Alexander heading the cast which includes Frank McHugh, Helen Lowell, Phillip Reed, Joseph Cawthorn, Ruth Donnelly and Dorothy Dare.

Short subjects on the program include a Betty Boop cartoon, "Stop That Noise," and World News events.

Ann Harding Drama, Race Film Billed

"Biography of a Bachelor Girl," with Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery co-starring in the film, will open at the West Coast theater on Sunday, March 17, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain, along with a second feature, "Red Hot Tires," a new melodramatic thriller with Lyle Talbot, Mary Astor and Gavin Gordon.

"Biography of a Bachelor Girl" tells the story of girl portrait painter who has had quite a lot of boy friends in the past and who scares them all to death when she decides to write the story of her life.

"Red Hot Tires" is a drama of the automobile race tracks, filled with breath-taking action and death-defying stunts which are performed by a corps of nationally famous racing drivers, although several of the cast take part in the races.

Fifteenth Birthday Inspires Surprise Celebration

Twenty-four young people took part in a merry evening of dancing and games Thursday when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stump, 2031 North Ross street, was the scene of a surprise celebration of the 15th birthday anniversary of their son, Larry Stump.

Punch was served during the evening. The birthday celebrant was presented with gifts including a monogrammed ring, which several of his friends joined in giving him.

Mrs. Stump had observed a yellow and green color scheme in all appointments for the affair. Refreshments served at a late hour included ice cream and a white birthday cake elaborately designed with yellow roses and green leaves and lighted with yellow candles.

Ebell Section Members Honor Husbands At Dinner and Bridge

Since circumstances have prevented members of Ebell's Fourth Household Economics section from meeting in almost two months' time, there was special anticipation among the clubwomen for the dinner and bridge party at which they entertained their husbands last night in the clubhouse.

Mrs. J. F. Richards and Mrs. Alfred H. Thorndike received as hostesses, and dinner was served to 32 section members and their husbands. One large table was utilized, and was striking with its mound of white frezias enclosed by tall white candles in deep green holders. Places were found by means of St. Patrick cards which later served for the recording of bridge scores.

A roast chicken dinner menu was enjoyed to the utmost, and there was a short entertainment interval before bridge was introduced in the clubhouse lounge.

Miss Doris Lorraine Fausel and Richard Watson gave two graceful dances, a waltz number and the Continental. Miss Margaret Davine was their accompanist, and also added several charming songs to the program.

University Women To Hold Open Meeting

Orange County branch of American Association of University Women has made arrangements for a special dinner meeting Thursday night, March 14, when Dr. Claude Buss of University of Southern California will be presented as speaker. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock in Ebell clubhouse, and University Women not only will entertain their husbands as special guests, but will open the affair to all interested friends.

Dr. Buss, of the Los Angeles University of International Relations as well as of the U. S. C. faculty, will speak on "The Conflict of Policy in the Far East."

He is said to present a keen analysis of the subject, his interest having been heightened by a several years' residence in China.

There will be additional program features of interest arranged by Mrs. Edith Thatcher, chairman, and members of her International Relations committee. Miss Beryl Hatch is chairman of the dinner and table committee.

Reservations for the dinner and address must be made by Monday and may be telephoned either 2615 or 4095-R.

New Committees Named For Third Household Section

In readiness for next year's meetings, committees were appointed Thursday afternoon following a 58¢ Patrick's luncheon enjoyed by 19 members of Ebell Third Household Economics section, meeting in the clubhouse.

Mesdames Stella Menges, E. H. Prince and B. B. Kellogg were named on the nominating committee. Mesdames Charles Seaman, C. F. Crose and C. W. Ralston were appointed on the program committee.

Luncheon was served at tables brightened with spring flowers, shamrocks and potatoes cleverly decorated to represent faces. Mesdames A. G. Finley, W. L. Leiby and F. L. Andrews, hostesses, were in charge of the afternoon program.

Mrs. Finley opened the program with piano solos. Mrs. Leiby read an article on Luther Burbank, referring to many of his experiments. In her talk on "The Irish Potato," Mrs. Andrews brought out that the potato originated in Germany, and was cultivated secondarily and thirdly in Poland and in the United States. She named 400,000 bushels as the amount of potatoes raised last year in the United States.

Members responded to roll call with current events.

Present were Mesdames F. L. Andrews, E. T. Battey, D. F. Cook, C. F. Crose, A. G. Finley, B. B. Kellogg, A. J. Lasby, W. L. Leiby, Stella Menges, E. L. Morrison, F. T. Preble, E. H. Prince, C. W. Ralston, W. B. Risk, F. M. Robinson, W. S. Rose, Charles Seaman, J. B. Stewart, Ralph Sutton.

Literature Section Hears Talk By Wilbur Barr

Discussing "Biography's Place in Literature," Wilbur Barr gave an interesting talk yesterday afternoon at a monthly meeting of Ebell Modern Literature section held in the home of Mrs. George Dunton, 1532 East Fourth street.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dunton, Dr. Heister Olevier and Mrs. Edwin McFadden. The social hour was especially delightful, with Mrs. C. B. Diehl pouring tea. Springtime appointments included bouquets of jonquils.

Announcement was made that Mona Summers Smith will review plays at the April meeting of the section.

Wedding Date in April Is Announced to Party Guests

Planned primarily to announce the April wedding date of Miss Pauline Parks and Russell Goetting, a delightful party was given on last night by Miss Parks' mother and sister, Mrs. Gay Parks and Miss Frances Parks. The evening also offered guests opportunity to shower a variety of charming gifts on the bride-elect.

The mother and daughter hostesses received guests in their home, 509 West Fifth street, where white flowers combined with much greenery, suggested the approach of St. Patrick's Day. This special decorative motif was uppermost throughout the evening, especially in tally cards distributed for progressive hearts. Round in green celophane and tied with green ribbons, the tallies proved to contain also cleverly posed pictures of Miss Parks and her fiance, together with the selected wedding date of April 21.

When scores were tallied, the first prize of a pretty bonbon dish was awarded Mrs. Peggy Melton; second of a compact went to Mrs. Gladys Camlet, and Mrs. Beth Goebling was crowned with a handkerchief. At the same time the various gifts for Miss Pauline Parks, were presented her in a large basket tied with airy green bows.

Slender white candles each rising from a choux of green celophane, lighted the individual tables where guests were served shamrock topped ice cream moulds, cake and coffee.

Mrs. Parks and Miss Frances Parks included on their guest list in addition to their honoree, Miss Pauline Parks, Mrs. Carl Dowless, Broa; Mrs. Stuart Diehl, Mrs. Jesse J. Parks Jr., Anaheim; Mrs. Clarence Watkins, Miss Viva Goff, Miss Marjorie Watkins, Laguna beach; Mrs. Bruce Veely, Artesia; Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, Los Angeles; Mrs. Arthur Gillespie, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Robert Goetting, Mrs. Esther Rummel, Tustin; Mesdames A. E. Goetting, J. E. Farr, Hobart Jordan, M. B. Morrison, Gladys Camlet, Peggy Melton, Frank Musselman Jr., Herbert Meyers, Helen Morris, Paul Snow, Ernest Cramrine, Gordon Beckley, the Misses Dorothy Boyd, Miriam Samuelson, Gladys Truman, Emily Marsh and LaVerne Parks, Santa Ana.

Miss Parks' fiance, Mr. Goetting, is the son of A. E. Goetting, 2429 Spurgeon street, and is owner and proprietor of the Main Photo service, South Main street.

White Shrine

Officers to serve for the ensuing year were elected during a meeting of Damascus White Shrine held last night in Masonic temple. Retiring officers, Marie Patterson, worthy high priestess, and William Lewis, watchman of the shepherds, presided.

Those named were Mrs. Sue Henry, worthy high priestess; Fred Pope, watchman of the shepherds; Mrs. Eva McConnell, table prophetess; Mrs. Pearl Hyde, chaplain; Mrs. Florence Wright, shepherds; Mrs. Minnie Pyle, guide; Mrs. Eleanor Shaw, scribe; and Mrs. Ethel Nicholson, treasurer.

Installation of new officers will take place during an open meeting to be held in Masonic temple Friday, April 12.

During annual reports presented at the meeting, it was revealed that the organization has a total membership of 175.

The meeting was preceded by a covered dish dinner, served at tables appropriately decorated in green and white. Mrs. Henry Meyer was hostess.

San Born to Former Santa Ana Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Lindsey, 7261 West Greenlake Way, Seattle, Wash., are announcing the arrival of a son, Alan Morrison Lindsey, born Monday, March 4.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey are former Santa Anans. Mrs. Lindsey will be remembered as Charlotte Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Morrison, formerly of this city.

Various Current Books Form Review List For Ebell

Mrs. Jack Valley has listed a group of 12 books to be discussed Monday afternoon when she presents a program of reviews and current events at a meeting of Ebell society scheduled for 2 p. m. in the clubhouse.

Heading the list is a quotation from Marie Maurois' "Mount Peacock." "The citizens of Mount Paon keep some of the wisdom of an older civilization, forgotten by the herd hysterics of Moscow and Detroit—the wisdom of the Greek Diogenes who knew how many things in life he did not want."

Other books to be reviewed are "The Great Wall Crumbles" (Grover Clark), "Changing Asia" (Egon Edwin Kisch), "I Speak for the Silent" (Tchernavin), "Moscow Carrousel" (Eugene Lyons), "France in Ferment" (Alexander Worth), "In the Shadow of Liberty" (Edward Corsi), "Heaven High Hell Deep" (Norman Archibald), "Lean Meat" (Ralph Bates), "Cast Down the Laurels" (Arnold Gingrich), "No Quarter Given" (Paul Horgan), "The Man on the Barge" (Max Miller).

Pioneer Club Spends Afternoon With Mrs. Alford

Holding their March meeting a day later than usual, Pioneer club members of Sedgwick W. R. C. were guests yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Sarah Alford, 721 Kilson Drive. Rooms were brightened with many colorful spring blooms from the home gardens.

Mrs. Emma Mosbaugh presided over the meeting, whose opening features included devotionals led by Mrs. Abbie Vandermast and flag salute led by Mrs. Annie Arnold, patriotic instructor. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. S. L. Aubin, who had presented each member of the organization with a white satin book mark, hand painted.

The program included poems and general discussion to which all members contributed. Arrangements for future activities were made, with Mrs. Mosbaugh and Mrs. Vandermast named on a committee to report on plans for a spring social event.

Appointments suggesting St. Patrick's day were in evidence at the refreshment mout, when ice cream centered with green shamrocks was served with cake, shamrock cookies and tea. Mrs. Alma Weaver and Mrs. Eugenia Harvey assisted Mrs. Alford in serving.

Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Elizabeth Birkhead. Members sharing Mrs. Alford's hospitality were Mesdames Emma Mosbaugh, Abbie Vandermast, Helen Aubin, Cassie Ferguson, Fannie Cunningham, Elizabeth McLeod, Dora Spangler, Hannah Huntington, Lottie Rittenhouse, Eugenia Harvey, Alice Kryhl, Martha Ritchey, Mary Ramsdale, Annie L. Arnold.

Plans were made to hold a covered luncheon at noon on the next meeting day, Thursday, April 4 in the home of Mrs. Mosbaugh, 636 North Broadway.

Various College Groups Accord Honors to Pledges

International Relations
Armaments was the subject of a group discussion of the International Relations club in the Women's lounge Thursday night. Robert Tannenbaum and Claude Owens, who debated on the same subject at the Stockton debate tournament last week-end, were leaders in the round-table discussion. About 15 members were present.

Preceding the discussion, the group listened to Huey Long's talk over the radio.

Music Club
With five new members as guests, the Music club held a semi-formal party in the home of Doris Filippin, Orange, Thursday night. New members of the club are Imogene McAuley, Harold Pottorff, Louise Sartor, Milford Carman and Martin Bowman.

Lois Murray, Dick Key and Harold Pottorff entertained with vocal solos. They were accompanied by Imogene McAuley at the piano. Bill Friend gave several selections on the violin, and Louise Sartor played a violin solo.

Refreshments of cake, salad and chocolate were served by the hostess.

Plans for the annual Music club concert, to be held March 24, were discussed. The concert will be a formal affair to which all students and faculty members of junior college will be invited.

A new requirement for membership was adopted, providing that prospective members should be invited to a meeting as guest artists before being voted on.

Orphan Kiddies
Orphan Kiddies held a "track meet" in the Y. M. C. A. lobby Wednesday night. The group was divided into teams for various relays and games which had been planned by Lila Davis and John Bailey, entertainment committee.

Ryverson Allen was elected treasurer of the club to succeed Eric Chiff, who has quit school. Refreshments of punch and sandwiches were served.

Church Societies

Graduates Honored

Baptist young people who will complete high school or college this year were accorded special honors at the family dinner party given Wednesday evening in the social rooms of First Baptist church, with the Women's society as host or organization.

Manquet hall decorations were in green and white, and St. Patrick's day symbols brightened the tables where honor guests were seated. This group included the Misses Vivian Elliott, Marjorie Steffensen, Betty Lee, Mildred Piller, Eunice Piller, Leatha Tyler, Claudine Minter, together with Gordon Beisel, Claude Owens, Ivan Williams, Alfred Oliphant, Franklin Munselle, Raymond Miller, Elbert Steward, Gordon Lockett, John Harbour, Eugene Clingan, Robert Scott and Phillip Cook.

Seated at the guest table with the young people were the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the church, Mrs. Owings, Mrs. E. A. Bell, president of the society, and the hostess committee, Mrs. M. M. Holmes, Mrs. Edwin Baird and Miss Laura Zolner.

The after-dinner program opened with Mrs. Bell's greetings to the guests and Mrs. Holmes' introduction of program numbers. Mrs. Elmer Steffensen led devotionals on the topic, "The One Road," concluding with the song, "I Can Hear My Saviour Calling."

The Rev. Mr. Owings gave a short inspirational talk whose theme was "Hold Close to Christ and the Church."

The Irish theme was stressed in subsequent features including Miss Beulah Parker's soprano solos, "Little Town in the Old Country Down," and "When Irish Eyes are Smiling." Harp numbers by Sylvia Cope of Corona Del Mar were her own arrangement of "The Last Rose of Summer," "All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Till Take You Home Kathleen."

Mrs. M. E. Getting added variety with her readings, "Big Dan O'Brien" and "The Caller," with a request number, "Mr. Doodles," and Russell P. Crouse, tenor, concluded the program with two songs.

"The Mountains of Mourne" and "Nora." Miss Mayme Havens was accompanist for both Miss Parker and Mr. Crouse.

Matters of general interest brought out at the short business meeting included short talks by Elmer Steffensen and A. M. Robinson on the annual Pledge day of the church to be observed March 24, also announcement of the projected Southland visit of Dr. Avery Shaw of Granville, Ohio, president of the Northern Baptist convention. Dr. and Mrs. Shaw will be complimented at a luncheon on March 21 in Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles, under direction of the Southern California Baptist convention.

Altar Society
Several new members were included in the group of 40 women present for a monthly meeting of the Altar society of St. Joseph church held recently in the home of Mrs. R. G. Tutill, 2035 Victoria Drive.

Following a business interval conducted by the president, Mrs. James Murphy, a review of "Anthony Adams" was given by Mrs. John Tossman.

Refreshments were served from a prettily decorated table. Hostesses were Mesdames R. G. Tutill, Nannie Belle Lester, Ella Naylon, Ashby Turner, B. B. Walbridge and Ralph Mosher.

J. O. C. Class
Musical numbers eloquent of old Ireland were included in a program presented this week following a business meeting of First Baptist Fidelity class held in the home of Mrs. Colleen Clark, 1345 South Ross street.

Mrs. Hazel Munselle conducted devotionals as the second in a series on famous women of the Bible, taking "Ruth" as the subject for the evening.

Miss Grace Roberts, chairman of foreign missions, read a letter from Viola Hill, missionary to China. Members learned that the little Chinese boy adopted by the class has taken the Christian name, "Paul."

A civic report was given by Miss Ida Nay. The class voted to start a commissary department of canned goods to be distributed by the home missionary committee. It was decided to continue with friendship baskets this year.

The program was opened by Mrs. Ruth McKenzie of Costa Mesa, who sang a group of songs, "A Little Bit of Heaven," "Dreams," "Smilin' Through," "Where the River Shannon Flows," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," "Mother Machree," accompanied by Miss Evelyn Hutton.

Miss Anna Mae Archer, accompanied by Miss Audrey Pipher, played "cello solos, "Come Back to Erin," "Serenade," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Blue Bells of Scotland." Mrs. Robert Horn gave readings, "Buying a Hat," "A Boy's Essay on 'Breath'" and "Robert Reese."

Refreshments were served by the social committee, Mrs. Colleen Clark, Mrs. Clay Williams, Miss Betty Musser and Mrs. Florence Holmes.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner

Small fruit cocktail
Small pan-broiled steak
3 Tbsp. string beans
3 Tbsp. canned peas
Orange salad with diet French dressing

Black coffee, no sugar.
Calory total, 500.
The butter allowance for both vegetables is one pat, or 1 Tbsp. of butter. The steak is small, a thin piece of porterhouse 1 n size 4 by 4 inches. One sliced orange on lettuce is allowed for salad, and 3 Tbsp. fruit cocktail mixture.

For more rapid loss of weight, why not use my SAFE AND SANE REDUCING DIET? This simple, efficient diet will reduce the average fat person about 10 pounds per month. Hundreds have used it and reported that they felt grand every day of its use.

You may have it by sending me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and also a copy of the CALORY LIST (350 items) in the same envelope, if you will trade a copy of one of your favorite recipes for the list.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Mince Meat Blackberry Pie
1 No. 2 can blackberries, or 1 1/2 cups home canned berries
1 1/2 cups mince meat
1 tsp. melted butter

Rich pastry.
Drain juice from blackberries and add berries to mince meat. Line a pan with pastry, flow the melted butter over bottom to prevent soaking, then fill with mince meat and cover with top pastry. Bake in hot oven for 15 minutes, then slow down oven and finish baking (about 20 minutes). Serve hot with this sauce:

To 1 cup berry juice add 1 Tbsp. sugar, pinch of salt and juice of 1/2 lemon. Bring to a boil, add 1 Tbsp. butter and thicken with 1 Tbsp. cornstarch dissolved in a little water. Cook until semiclear.

Scalloped Chicken
Cook a nice stewing chicken with a piece of veal (shank) until both are tender. Shake from broth and dice. Thicken broth slightly, adding a cup of thin cream and some beaten egg yolks if you have some at hand. The gravy should be rich, not just sticky-thick. Use a large flat pan for baking and with the chicken use these ingredients—

4 hard boiled eggs, sliced
1 tall can mushrooms with stems
Rice or corn flakes
Salt and pepper.
Put in a layer of flakes, then chicken and gravy, then eggs and sliced mushrooms. Continue until pan is almost full, with flakes on top. Bake 45 minutes in a medium oven, browning top nicely.

Caution: This dish will get mushy if too many flakes are used. Let the layers be thin ones, unless the dish is put into the hot oven as soon as prepared.

The calory value per serving of the pie (1-6th section) and 3 Tbsp. of the sauce is approximately 450, type energy makers; the scalloped chicken dish serves 8 or 10 and approximate calory value will run around 600 per serving.

Au revoir until Monday.
ANN MEREDITH.

CONFERENCE ON MISSIONS AND BIBLE OPENS

The opening of an eight-day missionary and Bible conference is being conducted by District Superintendent Walter A. Staub of Glendale, and a corps of newly returned missionaries and the Rev. H. L. Turner, evangelist, of Ontario, Canada, is set for 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Christian and Missionary Alliance church, according to announcement today.

The series starts with an address by the Rev. Mr. Staub tomorrow evening, telling of his thrilling experiences in that mission field. On Monday evening he will show pictures of his work among the neglected people of that country.

The Rev. Mr. Turner, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Emigh from Ecuador, South America, and the Rev. Mr. Staub will appear on the programs during the week. The public is invited to all services. Free taxi service will be extended to those who will telephone 5240-J, it was announced.

SECOND SERIES OF LECTURES OPENS

The second series of addresses on "Knowledge Remaking Religion" opens at the Unitarian church tomorrow, when the director of the Free Church Fellowship, the Rev. Julia N. Budlong, speaks on "What Modern Philosophy Contributes to Religion."

"Science does not find God, but does philosophy? And if something is found that can be called God, can we speak with any confidence in the Fatherhood of God? Or is the sense of being 'at home in the universe' a delusion?" are questions that the speaker will consider in the light of the most recent book of "the country's greatest living philosopher, John Dewey, she announced.

A review of Dewey's "Common Faith" will be included in the address, which is open to the public. A service of music and readings, conducted by Paul Veley, will precede the address.

Says Pyramids Measure Length Of Depression

A series of lectures on the pyramids of Egypt will be delivered by Prof. C. Walter Sigafosse, of Burbank, at the Central Christian Assembly, Sixth and French streets, beginning next Tuesday evening at 7:30 and continuing for three nights, it was disclosed today by the pastor, the Rev. George L. Rose.

The Rev. Mr. Sigafosse, he said, is one of the best informed men in America on the subject, "and has a very interesting lecture on the mysteries of the great silent monument of the Nile. It is said that history of the past, and also of the future, are accurately built into its wonderful structure; that its passages, tunnels and chambers tell us, by their measurements, the past, the present and that which shall be. It is said that the present world-wide depression is pictured in the pyramid by a low, narrow passage, which represents, in pyramid measurements, a period of seven years, but which opens out into the passage leading to the king's chamber."

The lecture will be made more interesting, said the Rev. Mr. Rose, by the use of a chart more than 20 feet long, and made in colors representing the material of the structure.

Pilgrim Players At First Baptist Church Tomorrow

The Pilgrim Players will present another of their stirring religious dramas, entitled "Zacchaeus the Tax-Gatherer," at the First Baptist church Sunday at 7 p. m., it was announced today by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor.

"Everyone knows the story of how Zacchaeus climbed a tree to get a look at Jesus as he passed by," and the announcement, "Everyone knows also that he was a tax collector in Jericho for the Roman government, and that he was rich."

The drama shows Zacchaeus in his home and portrays the scenes which led up to his meeting with Jesus and having the change of heart which caused him to restore fourfold to those whom he had unjustly taxed, finally dividing the half of his goods among the poor.

"It is a great church service, as played by Dr. George Bunnell and his group of players," said the Rev. Mr. Owings. The public is invited. An offering will be taken.

Peter Preaches To Gentiles

Text: Acts 10:34-48
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 10.
BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The titles of this lesson are interesting and significant. The general title, "Peter Preaches to Gentiles," based upon the text of the lesson, is changed for titles based more upon its application in its reference to intermediate and senior groups, and to young people and adults.

The intermediate and senior topic is "The Gospel for All," and the topic for young people and adults is "Overcoming Racial and National Prejudices."

The truth that God is no respecter of persons would seem to be written all over the New Testament, and to be inherent in the gospel of grace that Jesus gave to men.

To believe that God is a being who is arbitrary in his judgments, whose grace is moved with consideration of preference for a man of one color above another, or for a man of one race or nation above another, would be to destroy the greatness of God and make him a creature of biases and prejudices.

The impartiality of God's judgments is a condition of the integrity and righteousness of his judgments. Yet even among religious people few prejudices are harder to overcome than the prejudices of color, race and national allegiance. Peter was no exception.

Despite the fact that he had left all things to follow Jesus and was concerned about the salvation of men, the instinctive, or developed, prejudices of Peter's religious training and environment as soon as there was a time of testing. He was accustomed to think of Jews as a preferred and chosen people who had a sort of monopoly in religious privilege and truth.

When he found the gospel having the same effect upon Gentiles that it had upon Jews, and Gentiles becoming interested in the power of the gospel, he was frankly embarrassed. He did not know what to make of it.

It required a vision from heaven with great clearness of application to shake Peter out of his prejudices; and he was compelled to recognize that what God had cleansed was neither common nor unclean.

The one fine thing about Peter was that once he really perceived a thing, he was very bold and decisive in acknowledging it.

His vision might become again shadowed or confused, and he might lapse from his high moments, but his impulsiveness led him to frank avowal of his own narrowness and his own error when he perceived a larger and nobler way.

It was the experience of large contacts and larger outlook in religion that changed Peter. That, after all, is the way in which most people are changed. We find it easy to be narrow and prejudiced because our religious experience is so small.

When Peter found that Cornelius and other Gentiles could have the same sort of experience in religion that he had himself, he was forced to realize that the gospel was something larger and deeper than he had conceived it to be.

If we meet our fellowmen sympathetically and on a wide range, the one surprising thing will be the discovery how much of noble character, rich experience, and fine attitude and outlook are found in men and women of all races and colors and nations.

It is through the discovery of this, and through the sharing everywhere in the world of the things that are fine and true, that the discovery for progress in the coming down of the barriers of hate and prejudices and misunderstanding.

The essence of the gospel, if men would reach it and live it, is this attitude of heart and life that is in harmony with the grace of God, and that is as impartial and all-reaching in its manifestations as the love of God.

Class To Meet In M. E. Chapel

The Business and Professional Women's Class of the First M. E. church will meet Sunday morning with its teacher, Arthur M. Corey, in the church chapel, then reparting to its classroom, it was announced today.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

ELIJAH IS TAKEN INTO HEAVEN BY A FIERY CHARIOT

After Ahab's death his son, Ahaziah, reigned, and led the children of Israel into idolatry. But Jehoshaphat, who ruled the tribe of Judah, served the Lord. Ahaziah fell through his chamber lattice and was injured. He sent to Baal-zebub to inquire if he would recover, and for this idolatry Elijah prophesied that he would die. Ahaziah sent men to take Elijah, but twice the prophet brought fire from heaven upon them. And the time came for Elijah to leave his prophet's duties to Elisha. The latter, refusing to leave the older prophet, accompanied him to the river Jordan. "And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, so that they two went over on dry ground. And it came to pass, when they were gone over there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven."—II Kings 2: 8-14. THE TINYMIES

The checked hen felt very proud because it pleased the Tiny crowd. When it had finished with its song, the giant said, "That's great!"

"Now, sing once more and then I'll let you strut away so you can get your share of corn, back in the hen coop are you too late."

The hen, however, didn't stop to sing. It waited to fill its crop, and when the giant mentioned corn, it fluttered to the ground.

"Hey, there she goes," cried Scouty. "Gee, she must be hungry as can be. Let's follow her. She will be tickled when her lunch is found."

So, to the coop the Tinsies went, and there a half an hour was spent. The giant gave the Tinsies corn so they could throw the stuff. The kernels disappeared real fast. "Two heaps of fun until, at last, the giant said, 'Give her no more. I'm sure she's had enough.' And then, without another word, he grabbed hold of his magic bird and put her in a little box filled to the top with straw."

Said little Doty, "Oh, I beg of you to make her lay an egg. I'll bet that it will be the biggest egg we ever saw."

The giant answered, "Wait until I come back here. You'll get a thrill when you see what I'm going to do." The Tinsies cried, "Okay!"

"We'll always wait for something new. Remember, though, it's up to you to hurry back. We do not want to wait out here all day."

About five minutes passed and then the farmer joined the bunch again. He had a big bass fiddle and he cried, "I'll play a tune. 'It's music that makes my hen lay. Now, please be quiet. Don't you say a single word. Then you'll all see a real sight pretty soon.'"

(The Tinsies get their surprise in the next story.)
